ROLLINS IS INNOCENT

CONVICT CONFESSES ROXBURY STORE MURDER

Charles Rollins is innocent. The Boston boy sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing of Edward P. Foley is the victim of a miscarriage of justice. The real murderer, Jesse Murphy, alias "Murphthe Dague," alias "The Dangerous Kid," known to the police of hundred cities and now doing time in Pennsylvania for another crime, confessed to the murder today. The confession was made to a representative of the Boston American.

"The circumstances leading up to the real murderer's confession out-thrill the most hair-raising movie; there is in them the gang spirit of thief and porch climber, and back of it all the innate good will that is ingrained in men of nerve, whether they be soldiers or bandits, whether they carry their guns on their shoulders or in holsters hidden under the arms. They demand that a man get a square deal.

Throughout the trial of Charles Rollins, which ended in the finding of guilty of second-degree murder by a jury and his sentence to imprisonment for life by Judge Brown, there were five men who never left their seats in the court room.

Rollins didn't know them. The boy friends of Rollins who were called as witnesses for or against the lad didn't know them. Major Thomas L. Walsh, the Rollins boy's attorney, didn't know them, and never guessed their secret.

But the police knew them and were puzzled. Each had a criminal record.

Each was of the type that avoids publicity and the glare of daylight. Inspectors questioned them as to what they were doing. Inspectors threatened to arrest them on the charge of "suspicious persons," and they were unmoved. They made no explanations, but they were always in their seats, and never did they lose one word of the testimony offered.

WAITED FOR VERDICT BEFORE "SQUEALING."

Not even the relatives and friends of young Rollins waited

Boy's Fall Saves Six From Death by Coal Gas

Aroused by the sound of his son falling down a flight of stairs at their home, No. 188 Vernon street, Wakefield, early today, James H. Walsh found the house filled with coal gas, and his wife, two children and a boarder senseless from the fumes.

The boy who saved the family by his timely fall is Albert, six years of age. He was awakened by the fumes and reached the door at the head of the stairs, where he collapsed.

Those overcome were Mrs. Walsh, Margaret, eight years old; Marion, five, and Margaret Burcette, a boarder.

NAME RECEIVERS FOR PINK GRANITE COMPANY

Judge Edgar Aldrich in the Federal Court today appointed Fred J. Macleod of Cambridge and Captain Fred M. Clark of Milford, temporary receivers of the Bay State Pink Granite Company of Milford. The court will grant a hearing December 22 on the question whether to continue these men as permanent receivers for the purpose of converting the company's assets into cash and distributing the proceeds pro rata among its creditors. The liabilities are set at $100,000.

WEEKS IN FIGHT FOR EDWARDS

Washington, Dec. 10.—Former Senator John W. Weeks arrived here today to fight for justice for General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Department of the Northeast and the gallant leader of the Yankee Division of the American army in France.

To the American representative Mr. Weeks said:

"It is a downright shame to see this great soldier passed over by the general staff of the War Department and denied the promotion which he so richly deserves. I want to know the reason why this is being done.

"Nine officers who have been given the rank of major-general since the armistice were below him in stand-

BOSTON "LIGHTLESS" TONIGHT

Boston tonight will have her first "lightless" night since the war ended. This was the order today of James J. Storrow, Fuel Administrator of Massachusetts. Mr. Storrow is practically fuel dictator for New England, as the district committee on coal has delegated to him its authority to enforce the Federal regulations. All display advertising by means of electric lighting, including window displays, is banned.

STEAMSHIP IN DISTRESS OFF COAST

Efforts were being made by wireless today to learn the fate of the United States Shipping Board's oil-burning steamship Davidson County, carrying a crew of sixty men.

Several steamships had word of her position, but shipping board officials said they feared that the heavy weather at sea would make it difficult to reach the disabled craft.

Distress calls were being sent out at intervals today all along the New England coast. But up to this afternoon no word had come back from the Davidson County.

The first call from the Davidson was picked up Monday by the Canadian wireless station at Cape Sable. It was relayed to the United States naval wireless station at Otter Cliffs, Me., and then sent to Boston.

The steamship's position was given as latitude 47:30 north; longitude 44:10 west. This is off the Nova Scotia coast.

The Davidson County was bound from Rotterdam to Hampton Roads, Va., in ballast.

GIRL ATTACKS GUARDSMAN; IS RELEASED

Following a scuffle with a State Guardsman, in which the girl attacked the officer and aided the man to escape, Francis G. Darcy, twenty-two, of No. 6 Nawn street, Roxbury, and Miss Margaret J. Hasher, nineteen, of No. 937 Albany street, were before Judge Hayden today in the Roxbury court. Both pleaded guilty.

The man was sentenced to six months in the house of correction. The girl was placed on probation.

Sergeant Walter G. Horton of the Dudley street station testified that last evening about 8 o'clock the plate glass window of Samuel Rosen's store at No. 918 Albany street had been broken. Rosen notified State Guardsman James L. Tongre and identified Darcy as the man who had broken it. When the guardsman placed Darcy under arrest, Darcy snatched the rifle from the guardsman's hands and a tussle ensued with both rolling about in the gutter.

At this moment the girl, who had been writing a letter at her home, saw the trouble and came to the street, to Darcy's rescue, jumping on the State Guardsman and interfering in such a manner as to cause the prisoner to escape.

$100 Donated to Xmas Basket Fund by George Bascom

Through the generosity of George Bascom, Columbus avenue automobile supply dealer, another gift of $100 has been added to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, now nearing the $9,000 mark.

"I regard the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund very highly," said Mr. Bascom in discussing his donation. "I believe it to be one of the most worthy charities I know of. To feed hungry, underfed children on Christmas is a magnificent project. The idea is splendid. I consider it a privilege to be permitted to help such a movement. Men are too apt to be engrossed in their daily labors to such an extent that they forget the less fortunate."

Mr. Bascom is always willing to

PASS NEW BILL TO HALT RENT PROFITEERS

A bill giving complete authority to the State Commission on the Necessities of Life to investigate the rents charged tenants by their landlords was passed today by the House of Representatives.

This was the House's prompt answer to the opinion of the Supreme Court that under the present law the commission is devoid of power to investigate charges of profiteering.

The new bill is, in form, an amendment to the law which created the Commission on the Necessaries of Life. It says:

"It shall also be the duty of said commission to investigate the circumstances affecting the charges for rent of property used for living quarters or for the production of the necessaries of life, and in such investigation the commission may inquire into all matters relating to charges for rent."

More than 2,000 investigations had been made by the commission before a Lynn landlord raised the question of the commission's authority under the law. The commission had forced down the charges in some cases and in a great many its investigations had been "a deterrent force against higher charges," it said.

GOLDMAN-BERKMAN PLEA REJECTED BY BRANDEIS

Washington, Dec. 10.—Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court today refused the plea of Harry Weinberger, attorney for Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, for a writ of error to bring the deportation cases of Goldman and Berkman to the Supreme Court on habeas corpus proceedings. The plea was made in chambers and Justice Brandeis referred Weinberger to the Supreme Court.

Chief Justice White announced that the Supreme Court would take the appeal under consideration. He indicated a decision as to granting it would be announced by the court before 4 p. m. tomorrow.

more intently for the verdict of the jury than the silent five. At the solemn word "guilty" they looked at each other for the first time. But there was no question in the look.

And then the men who believe that "an informer is a copper in his heart"; who believe that one who violates the ethics of the underworld by "squealing" is worthy of the coward's death, walked up to Major Thomas Walsh and quietly told him THAT ROLLINS WAS INNOCENT AND ONE OF THEIR OWN GANG HAD COMMITTED THE CRIME.

Twenty minutes before the crime was committed Murphy had told these men that he was going to rob the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Store. They warned him of the danger, and he answered that if anybody gave him the slightest trouble he would kill that person. He wanted the money and he cared no whit for any crime that stood in his way.

Less than ten minutes after the crime Murphy reappeared. He was pale, and shaken, and he all but whispered the awful thing he had done. Though they did not condone the crime, the unnecessary killing of an unarmed man, the first instinct of the gang was to get Murphy away and out of danger of arrest.

MURDERER MADE A CLEAN GETAWAY.

The second was the fixing of his alibi if he was taken for the crime. Both were successful; they were worked out by a mind which lost sight of no necessary detail, and Murphy made a clean getaway.

Then came the uproar and clamor for justice that followed the crime. If Murphy was suspected by any of the police assigned to the case the manufactured alibi seemed to absolve him completely.

Next followed the arrest of young Rollins. A little time in the county jail for a victim of circumstances seemed no great matter to the five. They would never think of surrendering their pal to clear another's name of possible suspicion or saving that other possible discomfort by a few months in jail.

But when it came to a trial for murder, the ethics of gangdom went by the board. They could not see a youngster sent to life imprisonment for a crime of which he was innocent. It was not a square deal.

COURT READY TO DO JUSTICE TO ROLLINS.

So a dapper young man, one often seen in the lobbies of the best hotels, one who is spoiling his own game ("crabbing his grift," in his expression) in order that a total stranger may get a square deal, acted as spokesman to Major Walsh and told the whole startling story, in a manner as calm and cool as though he were completing arrangements for a dinner or party.

After Judge Brown had imposed the sentence of life imprisonment Major Walsh told him the story of the real murder, and it was decided that if future developments proved them to be the truth action would be taken with the ultimate result of exonerating Rollins of the charge on which he was convicted.

An American reporter, accompanied by one who knew Murphy well, went to the penitentiary in Pennsylvania where he is confined, and there faced him with the facts.

MAKES CLEAN BREAST OF THE CRIME.

At first Murphy was sullen and refused to say anything, but when he was convinced that the gang demanded the truth he made a clean breast of all the details of the crime. He is himself in a serious condition and there is grave possibility that he may not live to atone for the slaying of Foley.

His confession has been made, has been properly witnessed, and the next move is the province of the District Attorney of Suffolk County.

Rollins yesterday served his first day in solitary confinement for the crime and today he was at work in the aluminum department, making automobile number plates.

COUNCIL SCORED FOR 'FAILURE TO HELP MAYOR'

Brickley, Ball and Cassidy Issue Joint Statement Based on Police Strike Crisis

Condemnation of the City Council for its failure to "uphold the hands of Mayor Peters in the trying hours of the police strike," and to co-operate with the Mayor in other respects, is expressed in a statement issued today by David J. Brickley, Thomas J. Ball and John J. Cassidy, candidates for election to the council, December 16. The trio unite also in expressing thanks to the Good Government Association for its indorsement.

The three candidates outline questions which they purpose to ask of the three candidates for re-election, Messrs. McDonald, Ford and Watson, on the council's failure to resume upward the schedule of market leases, its delay in acting on the revised plan for consolidation of the island institutions, and on the Stuart street widening and extension.

FINE DRUGGIST $50 FOR SELLING JAMAICA GINGER

Henry F. Murray, a Neponset avenue druggist, was fined $50 in the Dorchester Court today on the charge of selling Jamaica ginger. He appealed and was released on his own recognizance. Murray told the court that he sold the ginger as medicine, and charged $1.25 a bottle, so that alcoholics would not attempt to buy it. He also appealed the seizure of his stock, four dozen bottles.

20 BOSTON FIRMS ROBBED BY SWINDLER

Former Rhode Island Convict Gets Big Orders of Goods by Worthless Checks

Disguised as a buyer for the firm of Adolph Cohen, a merchant of Pawtucket, R. I., Abraham Fisher, alias Abrahan Fischer, who served two years in Rhode Island State Prison for stealing an automobile, has succeeded in swindling at least twenty Boston firms out of thousands of dollars.

Recently he went into the office of Charles Streeton & Son Manufacturing Company and purchased a large supply of goods, which he ordered sent to Cohen's business establishment.

TOOK VALUABLE SAMPLES.

Figuring his order to be exceptionally large, he was allowed to take samples away with him, as in many other cases, valued at $500. These goods were immediately disposed of by him through outside sources. He has also passed numerous worthless checks forged in Cohen's name in payment for the merchandise.

Fisher has been operating in every large business section in the country. Among the cities which he has visited and carried on his work successfully are New York, Fall River, Cambridge, Lynn, Brockton and Taunton. The total amount collected by him on these expeditions is said to run far into the thousands.

NATION-WIDE SEARCH.

Police throughout the country have been notified to keep a watch out for him. They will work in harmony with the Watts Detective Agency of this city, which has already detailed many of its best men to work on the case.

Fisher is described as being about twenty-eight years of age, five feet 5 inches in his stocking feet, 156 pounds; build, medium stout; hair, brownish; eyes, grey; complexion, light; born, Rhode Island; occupation, plumber.

COL. WHITMAN DECORATED FOR VALOR IN ACTION

Lieutenant-Colonel Walter M. Whitman of Wrentham, connected with the 325th Infantry, was decorated today by Major-General Edwards with a Distinguished Service Medal for "his able and aggressive leadership in action and his meritorious success in all the missions assigned him."

He has already won the Distinguished Service Cross, Legion of Honor (officer) and Croix de Guerre.

This is the thirty-sixth decoration that General Edwards has pinned on officers and enlisted men since the close of the war.

Among those who witnessed the ceremony besides the officers of the staff were: Lieutenant-Colonel John L. Pierce of West Baldwin, Me., of the 325th Infantry, who was wounded five times in action, Captains R. R. Goehring of Pennsylvania, J. H. Choate, 82d Division and Alexander Fawcett of Georgia of the 325th Infantry.

General Edwards after the decoration left for Meriden, Ct., where he is the guest of Governor Holcombe.

CABRERA BELIEVES U. S. WON'T INTERVENE

Mexico City, Dec. 10.—"Knowing President Wilson's attitude and policy towards Mexico, I do not believe that the Jenkins case will be used as a pretext for armed intervention by the United States," declared Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance, today.

The investigation of the case of W. O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, was scheduled to be continued at Puebla this afternoon. The hearing, it was understood, would cover Mr. Jenkins' request that he be returned to the penitentiary or else freed without any question of bail.

BRITISH TRADE UNIONS ASK PEACE WITH RUSSIA

London, Dec. 10.—The Trade Union Congress in special session today adopted unanimously a resolution calling upon the government to consider the peace overtures from the Soviet government of Russia. The resolution also provided for the following: 1—Raising of the blockade of Russia. 2—An independent investigation of the Russian situation. 3—Appointment of a parliamentary delegation to visit Russia.

EX-NEWSBOY TO BE MAYOR OF WORCESTER

Peter F. Sullivan, Democrat and State Senator, Elected With Record Majority

"From Newsboy to Mayor, or the Struggles of a Self-Made Man" might be the title of a biography of Peter F. Sullivan, elected mayor of Worcester by the biggest vote and the biggest majority ever given a Democrat in a Worcester city election.

Starting his business career as a newsboy, later being the first Boston American representative in that city, Sullivan forged rapidly ahead until today he is chief executive of the city.

Peter F. Sullivan went to Worcester when he was five years old, accompanying his parents from Ireland.

When he was ten years old he began to sell newspapers, with his brother Daniel, later opening a stationery and newspaper store, which he retained for years. When the Boston American was established Sullivan was the first agent in Worcester.

For some time after completing his service as a city official, Mr. Sullivan devoted his energies to ticket selling.

A year ago he decided to enter the race for the State Senate, and was elected from the First Worcester District, which was strongly Republican. Because of his wide popularity, many citizens voted for Sullivan regardless of party affiliations.

From the stationery store young Sullivan went into the ticket-selling business, disposing of railroad and steamship tickets. During the Spanish war he served with the old Emmet Guards, Company G of the Ninth Regiment, and upon the death of the Boston Post correspondent, assumed that position.

BECAME ALDERMAN.

After the war Sullivan returned to his ticket agency, which he still retains on Pleasant street. He was then elected to the Worcester City Council, serving two years, and later served four years as a member of the Board of Aldermen.

He made the campaign on the issue of the soldiers' bonus, and the $100 bonus law was framed in part from a bill which he introduced. He was also a member of the Military Affairs Committee.

Senator Sullivan made a good record as a conservative, constructive legislator, and during the closing days of the Senate was often called upon to preside over that body in the absence of President McKnight.

POPULARITY PROVES.

Senator Sullivan occupied a prominent place among the Democrats of Worcester, and his popularity among the voters was attested by the size of his plurality.

He is a member of Alhambra Council, K. of C., Division 3, A. O. H., St. Anne's Temperance Society, O'Connell Association, Camp Shumway of the Legion of Spanish War Veterans and the Society of the Army of Santiago.

Mayor-elect Sullivan said today:

"I am deeply gratified for the support given me by the citizens of Worcester, who have chosen me to be their next Mayor. I feel that my success is due largely to the services men in appreciation for what little I could do for them. The people of Worcester showed faith in me, and I will, to the best of my ability, justify that faith. I thank the Boston American and other newspapers for the fair treatment accorded me."

SUGAR PRICE TO SOAR BECAUSE OF BIG SALES TO GREAT BRITAIN

U. S. COMMISSION IS BLAMED FOR CONDITIONS

A sharp jump in the price of sugar is predicted, according to the report of the Commission on Necessaries of Life, submitted to the Legislature today.

In the report the commission places the blame for the sugar shortage on the National Equalization Board, pointing out the fact that at least one-third of the sugar which naturally would have assisted in relieving the present situation in New England had been sold to the Royal Commission of Great Britain, and this exportation was allowed. The National Board assumed that there would be sufficient sugar to meet all needs and also to allow exports to foreign countries.

A marked increase in the use of sugar has been noticed of late, to the extent of at least 20 per cent.

COMMISSION'S REPORT

The report of the Commission on Necessaries of Life in complete form follows:

"To the Honorable Speaker of the House of Representatives, General Court of Massachusetts in General Court assembled:

"In response to the order of the House of Representatives dated December 8, the Commission on the Necessaries of Life makes the following report relative to sugar:

"The supply and distribution of sugar has been entirely a function of the United States authorities, and this commission has intervened only to ameliorate conditions as much as possible.

"Under the laws of the United States, a body known as the Sugar Equalization Board was constituted to obtain supplies of sugar and to distribute the same equitably. A year ago this board purchased the Cuban crops (about 4,000,000 tons) and took certain control over the Louisiana crop and the best sugar crop of the Middle West, the other large sources of supply.

"After reserving what they considered an adequate amount for the needs of this country they permitted the Royal Commission, representing allied foreign powers, to purchase what is a share of the Cuban crop, and a certain portion, about one-third of the crop, was turned over to the Royal Commission.

"The Cuban crop was purchased at five and one-half cents per pound. The price at the refinery was fixed at nine cents per pound, less 2 per cent. discount for cash. The wholesaler's commission was fixed at 50 cents per hundred. The retailer was required to sell at ten and one-half to eleven cents per pound.

"About July 1, 1919, it appeared to the Equalization Board that there was an over-supply. A number of cargoes offered with shipments to this country, a large stock had accumulated in Cuba from which the Equalization Board sold to foreign governments a further amount for the protection of a considerable amount of American sugar to foreign countries.

SHORTAGE EVIDENT EARLIER.

"During September statistics showed that the consumption of sugar in this country was very much greater than had been anticipated. Consumption exceeded that of the highest previous year by 22 per cent. Weather conditions reduced the Louisiana crop to less than one-half of the expected amount—325,000 tons instead of 650,000, and it became evident that the supply of sugar in the hands of the governmental authorities would not be adequate to carry the country through the year at the then rate of consumption.

"The Equalization Board, about October 1, appointed a committee of refiners who investigated the situation, and on October 18 the rules for curtailment on distribution on the basis of the amounts received by the various wholesalers during the month of October, 1918. They appointed as sub-committee to handle New England exclusive of Connecticut, the two local refiners, the heads of the American Sugar Refining Company and of the Revere Sugar Refinery, who were given the exclusive right to supervise distribution and to make such minor adjustments in allotments as were necessary.

"This commission had no authority and its activities did not appear to be particularly acceptable to the authorities. Nevertheless it was felt that the situation was so serious that some action should be taken to protect the people of Massachusetts.

"The Commission considered instituting the war rationing system with sugar cards, but was forced to abandon the plan, because of the expense, estimated at $50,000 to $75,000, and because of the fact that the system would not be efficiently established until all control of sugar would be ended. It was impossible to obtain from the Equalization Board any definite estimate of the supply which would form the basis of the ration.

"In view of the emergency, it was decided that the only thing which could be done was to trace the sugar downward to the retailers, and this commission established a sugar division under the supervision of John N. Stevens, who served with the Food Administration. Under the power given it by the State law this commission demanded a complete daily return from the refiners of all distributions of sugar at all sources, and also required all wholesalers to make similar returns. After repeated efforts the equalization board finally directed the refiners to withhold delivery on recommendation of this commission. The power so given was availed of in a number of instances where wholesalers were caught in unfair practices. Thousands of complaints were and are being taken up and rectified insofar as possible.

EVIL OF HOARDING.

"During the six weeks from October 15 to December 1 the following is the record of distribution in Massachusetts:

"Allocation of sugar by refiners.

"Deliveries to Massachusetts, October 15, 1919, to November 29, 1919, inclusive, a period of six weeks:

	Barrels.	Pounds.	Per cent.	Per capita.
Wholesale and retail	71,255	25,044,600	62	6.26
Non essential manufac.	32,164	11,257,400	27	2.81
Bakeries and essentials	12,156	4,254,600	11	1.06
Total	113,576	40,556,600	100	10.13

"Approximately 39 per cent. of the sugar delivered to the wholesale and retail trade found its way into the hands of manufacturers, bakers, etc. The remaining 80 per cent. going to the consumer and showing a per capita supply to the consumer in Massachusetts for the six weeks of approximately five pounds per head. This amount is being normal, but is not so much below as to constitute a serious shortage had it been possible to obtain an absolutely equal distribution.

"Wholesalers and retailers have in general done their part, but the individual consumer has in many instances obtained more than his share. The practice of going from store to store became quite a marked evil that retailers were forced to protect themselves by demanding a purchase of other goods. This practice had led to certain evils in its turn and has been generatially given up in all retail stores, retail orders, other means being taken to identify bonafide customers.

CONFECTIONERS HIT.

About the midle of last November the Equalization Board found that there was to be a further restriction in the amount of sugar which they had counted being reduced by about 60,000 tons. The reason for such reduction was not satisfactorily explained, but it is a fact and has resulted in reducing the amount of sugar which New England will have very substantially.

"A further reduction was made on November 26 when 4,760,000 pounds of raw sugar which had been allotted to New England was diverted to Texas, and then it became evident that the supply of sugar for December would be so low that radical measures would have to be taken to protect the consumer. This commission, after trying vainly in every way to obtain a larger supply for New England advised the Equalization Board that under the situation it would be necessary to cut off the federal-owned sugar from all except from consumers and essential industries.

"The Equalization Board has made this rule, as requested, and under it there is in sight for the people of Massachusetts approximately two pounds for the four weeks from December 1 to January 1. This action means a great loss to the confectionery. The State of Massachusetts is the largest confectionery manufacturing community in the country. It employs from 12,000 to 14,000 operatives, but under the circumstances there seems to be no alternative. The confectioners and others are not cut off completely, as there now are appearing in the market sixteenths that higher prices considerable quantities of sugar are not under the control of the Equalization Board, including beet sugars bought from the West, Louisiana sugar, Brazilian, Porto Rican and other brands.

"Under the present laws the life of the United States Equalization Board terminates on January 1. It controls no sugar after the present small remaining amount is consumed. The Federal authorities do not seem to contemplate a further continuance of governmental control in sugar. The result will be that the price will rise.

"The equalization board could have purchased the 1920 Cuban crop in July and August for 6½ cents per pound. This recommendation was made to the administration in Washington, but was not acted upon. Already this 1920 crop is being quoted at 8¾ cents per pound, which will mean a price of 15 to 18 cents per pound to the consumer. Even this price is not assured.

"The United States Attorney-General has fixed a price of 17 1-6 cents per pound for Louisiana sugar, and the other growers of sugar are holding back supplies, expecting that Louisiana price to carry their raw sugar to a greatly higher level.

"Reports from Cuba, however, are to the effect that the crop is a very large one, probably larger than that of 1918, and, although advices are incomplete, it does not appear as if the foreign demand for sugar would be as heavy as in the past year, owing to the resumption of beet sugar production in France and Central Europe. A new Cuban crop will begin to appear in the market shortly after January 1, 1920.

"On the question of exportation, there is a great deal of misunderstanding. It is estimated that about 400,000 tons of the United States owned sugar, including the 160,000 tons sold by the Equalization Board have been exported. Of the sugar allotted to the New England district, however, the amount exported so far as careful scrutiny on the part of this commission has uncovered the facts, has not exceeded 10,000 tons.

"No United States owned sugar is now being exported, nor has any been exported recently except a very small balance on a contract entered into in July by one sugar jobber. The amount exported from our supply, although it is not at the present time, would do much to relieve the situation, has not greatly contributed to the shortage.

"The reason for the misapprehension in regard to export sugar is due to the fact that a great deal of raw sugar is brought to this country to be refined for the Royal Commission. This is a part of the sugar which was sold to the Royal Commission over a year ago and is not owned or controlled by the United States—its presence in this country being merely an incident in its voyage—the arrangement being made with the Royal Commission in order to give our refiners additional work. There appears to be no way in which this sugar can be made available for our use without a breach of faith on the part of the government."

Wilson Responsible for Sugar Shortage, Declares Senator McNary

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Responsibility for the shortage of high prices of sugar was placed on the President today by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, speaking on the bill providing for the purchase of the sugar crop and the extension of the life of the Sugar Equalization Board.

Senator Gay, Democrat, Louisiana, objected to the consideration of the bill, the anti-sedition bill being the regular order in the Senate. His objection was withdrawn, however, with Senator Randell of Louisiana Gay opposes the passage of the bill.

CHARKOFF INNOCENT; MISTAKEN IDENTITY

The Grand Jury brought in a no bill in the case of Morris Charkoff of No. 29 Page street, Dorchester, who was accused of stealing 16 cents from a newsboy. Charkoff was alleged by the police to have knocked down and robbed Isadore Schinasberg. The Grand Jury discovered that a mistake in identity had been made.

POLICE CALLED IN SCHOOL STRIKE AT HOPKINTON

Miss Ellen Duffey, whose dismissal from the teaching staff of the Hopkinton High School, has stirred the town to its depths and caused a "walkout" of the pupils. Below, a facsimile of the card badge worn by the "strikers."

Hopkinton, Dec. 10.—Fearing physical violence as a result of the strike of the pupils in the high school, precipitated by the discharge of Miss Ellen L. Duffey, a popular teacher, Selectman Carr, a well-known lawyer, with offices in Boston, was compelled to call for State officers to guard the homes of town officials and the schoolhouses.

Charging seven of the town's prominent citizens with rioting, the authorities have summoned them to court. They will be tried under Section 191 of the Acts of 1919, the popularly-termed "anarchy" law. It is alleged they engaged in a disturbance last Saturday.

The warrants were issued when Sheriff Walsh appeared before Judge Driscoll and demanded action, saying that threats are being made to "blow up the high school building."

Every deputy sheriff is on duty and men in civilian clothes, said to be State officers, are guarding the school buildings and the homes of town officials.

Never in the town's history has public feeling reached a pitch of such intense bitterness as exists today. Lifelong friends have parted, verbal arguments are heard on every street and citizens publicly talk of "taking the law into our own hands."

Those charged with the rioting are Edward Condon, the only member of the school committee who refused to vote for Miss Duffey's discharge; Warren B. Lyman, superintendent of schools; Claude Guyton, Louis E. Brawbridge, Douglas McMillan, John Hunt and Mrs. Rosella Pond.

2 CHARGES AGAINST WOMAN.

The men are also charged with causing a disturbance, and Mrs. Pond is charged specially with assaulting Timothy Roach, one of the school committee members.

Meantime, the strikers today were adamant in their determination not to go back unless Miss Duffey was reinstated. All four committees of pupils expressed their purpose in no uncertain terms.

Joseph J. Dineen, senior president, said: "It is up to the fair-minded citizens of this town to see that Miss Duffey is reinstated. We will stay out for two years if necessary unless Miss Duffey is taken back."

John R. Oakley, junior president, said: "If we have to go somewhere else to school, we'll stay out until Miss Duffey is reinstated."

Richard McCall and Francis Maher, sophomore and freshman presidents, respectively, expressed the same resolve.

When Deputy Sheriff William Walsh of Framingham, acting under the orders of the School Committee, requested Miss Duffey to vacate the building after she had returned to her classes, she left immediately, following the advice of her attorney.

Exactly two minutes later the school fire signal was rung and the entire student body wearing conspicuous and specially designed "strike" badges, marched out in order and returned to their homes.

WILL NEVER YIELD.

Miss Duffey declares that she will never yield.

"My dismissal is ridiculous. They have absolutely no grounds for it; the testimony is absurd. They want to get rid of me because I have been a thorn in the flesh of the superintendent, whom they oppose and have debarred from committee meetings which he had a legal right to attend. And they have political ambitions of their own and will have tried to put over on the people.

"When I heard about my expulsion, I demanded a public hearing which is my legal right. It was denied me, and an effort was made to bar out the public from the school house where the discussion was going on. I had no chance to give testimony, nor to bring witnesses. The charges brought against me by two students were absurd. They stated that I once waved my hand to a conductor, and that I left my classes to spy on a teacher, who was a friend of theirs.

WEEKS TO LEAD BATTLE FOR EDWARDS

ling on the list. Not one of them has a better record of service, and some of them have records that are not to be compared with his.

NEW ENGLAND AROUSED.

"The people of New England are entitled to know why this unjust discrimination against General Edwards persists, and I am confident I speak their thoughts and wishes when I say that the treatment he has received is a shame and that there should be some explanation of it.

"We are entitled to that. Believing this, I have hurried to Washington to do what I can to put a stop to this unjust treatment of the most beloved of the New England soldier boys and their parents and secure for him the consideration to which he is so eminently entitled.

"The committee on military affairs of the Senate will meet Friday morning to consider the nominations of Brigadier-Generals Edwards, Harboard and Kerman to be major-generals, and I have arranged with Senator Wadsworth, chairman of the committee, to be heard in behalf of the people of New England in the interest of General Edwards.

TO ASK POSTPONEMENT.

"I shall ask that confirmation be deferred until the committee can have all the facts relative to the military career of General Edwards and the reasons why he should be preferred to at least one of the nominees and be substituted for him.

"I shall ask the committee to request of the general staff that they submit their reasons for the continued slighting of the man who organized the first fighting division to go across and who served at the head of it throughout the entire war with signal distinction.

"The people of New England should rise in protest against the treatment accorded Edwards, and I feel sure the boys of the Yankee Division will be represented by a strong delegation at the committee hearing."

Governor Beeckman Will Lead Governors' Protest on Slighting of Edwards

The indignation which has swept New England because the War Department "jumped" three other officers to gain permanent major-generals over Major-General Clarence R. Edwards was expected to concentrate today at the State House, when the Governor of the New England States convened to discuss the coal situation and other matters vital to New England.

Governor Holcomb announced that he would ask the six Governors to make a united request of the War Department to grant this permanent rank to the popular leader of the 26th Division, "New England's own."

Governor Beeckman and General Edwards are old friends, and the Rhode Island executive feels deeply the action of the War Department in ignoring General Edwards in the list of promotions.

"Any slight to General Edwards, who is an admirable soldier, will resent on those responsible for it," he said today. Thirty-five years ago the Governor and the general were friends when at Fordham College, N. Y. The general was at that time drilling instructions in drilling to the students.

The officers chosen, all of whom are below General Edwards in priority rank, are General Joseph T. Dickman, who is No. 14 on the priority list; General James G. Harboard, No. 23 on the list, and General Charles J. Kerman, No. 19. General Edwards is No. 1. He was given the temporary rank of major-general, but expects to be reduced to his former rank of brigadier-general as soon as the war is technically over.

The mass meeting at Faneuil Hall under the auspices of Y. D. officers and enlisted men to protest against the "jumping" of General Edwards' name, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until Friday evening.

Francis J. W. Ford, president of the Boston City Council, said:

"I think it is an outrage that Major-General Edwards is not given official recognition. No New England father or mother whose boy served in the Yankee Division can be indifferent of the neglect of General Edwards by the War Department. They should express themselves in the most forcible way to make plain their attitude on this neglect of a great military man, who is also a public idol."

James Donovan, City Clerk:

"Major-General Edwards is fully deserving of an appointment as a permanent major-general. Not only his long experience in army affairs, but his splendid record of service as the head of the Yankee Division, entitles him to it."

Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan, of the State Guard, Public Works Commissioner:

"Major-General Edwards should be permanently appointed to that rank. He has served in that capacity for several years now, and his war record with the Yankee Division would fully justify his appointment."

Gen. Edwards' "Jumping" Arouses Gov. Holcomb and Hartford "Y. D." Men

Hartford Conn., Dec. 10.—Former Twenty-Sixth Division officers and men, residents of Hartford, in addition to Governor Marcus H. Holcomb and Mayor Richard J. Kinsella, expressed deep disappointment today at the failure of the War Department to award Major-General Clarence R. Edwards some form of permanent recognition for his valiant war service and they strongly favor a move to confer the permanent rank of major general on the former commander of the Yankee Division.

Governor Holcomb declared he has yet to see one of General Edwards' boys and that they are unanimous in his support. "Why he was removed from his command within three weeks of the close of the war, said the governor, "I do not know. The ways of military politics are beyond me."

Mayor Richard J. Kinsella said that any move set on foot to honor General Edwards would have his hearty support.

Manchester, N. H., "Y. D." Club Calls Meeting to Protest Edwards' Slight

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 10.—Major Oscar G. Lagerquist, member of the executive committee of the YD Club, has called a meeting of all Manchester men who saw service with the 26th Division during the great war with Germany, to be held in the State Armory next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Major Lagerquist issued the call immediately following the receipt of a telegram signed by Brigadier-General Charles A. Cole and Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne, in which he was notified of the action of the War Department on "jumping" Major-General Clarence R. Edwards for the tenth time by promoting Brigadier-Generals Kerman, Harboard and Dickman as permanent major-generals of the army.

Salem Protests at Big Mass Meeting and Through Mayor on Edwards' Case

Salem, Dec. 10.—Mayor Denis J. Sullivan of this city today sent telegrams of protest to Senators Lodge and Walsh to use their influence to prevent the promotion of officers nominated for permanent rank of major-generals over General Edwards.

The action of the Mayor follows the mass meeting held at City Hall here last night, at which vigorous protest was made at the slighting of General Edwards.

Lieutenant-Colonel Frank S. Perkins, former commander of the 24 Battalion, 51st Field Artillery, was the principal speaker. The meeting was called by Mayor Sullivan.

Baby Burns to Death as Crowd Stands by Helpless

Fall River, Dec. 10.—Five-year old Manuel Ferry, jr., was burned to death when a tenement building at No. 1020 South Main street was swept by fire, causing more than $2,000 damage. The boy was on the third floor and the crowd below could see his face against a blackened window as the flames crept up on him.

Some adverse criticism of the fire department was heard from witnesses, who said the firemen took no notice of the boy. Fire Chief Davol tried to have one man arrested for making certain remarks, but the man ran away.

CITIZENS WAR ON RENDERING PLANT

Tennean Beach Would Be Endangered, Say Dorchester and Neponset Folk

Charging that Tennean Beach would be destroyed by the erection of a proposed rendering plant on the Neponset River, a strong protest will be registered by Dorchester residents at a hearing on Friday.

A large delegation, including a number of women and headed by Representative Thomas Leavitt, will ask that Thomas G. Washburn, real estate operator, be refused permission to build the plant.

Mr. Washburn has sought a permit to construct a plant on the river between Granite avenue and Hilltop street, and a hearing will be granted by the board of health in City Hall Annex at 2 p. m. Friday.

Householders in the Neponset section of Dorchester are thoroughly aroused by the proposed action. At the present time they declare that when the wind is blowing in a certain direction the odor from Spectacle Island is almost unbearable. If the Washburn plant should be built they insist that it would be impossible to live in the neighborhood.

It is further pointed out that the river would be polluted and it would result in the destruction of Tennean Beach, on which the city has spent thousands of dollars.

GERMANY READY TO ACCEPT PROTOCOL

By International News Service.

London, Dec. 10.—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Berlin today states that Germany is now expected to sign the peace treaty ratification protocol.

Berlin, Dec. 10.—Germany's reply to the latest allied note demanding that Germany sign the peace treaty protocol probably will be dispatched tomorrow, it was announced today.

The German answer is being withheld, it is said, until Foreign Minister Mueller speaks in the National Assembly tomorrow. There are indications that government circles desire a compromise on the terms for the delivery of German tonnage to the allies.

EXPRESS PACKAGES, 25 POUNDS, MUST BE BOXED

All express packages weighing more than twenty-five pounds must be in wooden boxes, according to new rules the Railway Express Agency Company, which went into effect today. Packages under that limit will be accepted wrapped in paper, as before. The wooden containers must bear the "shippers" certificate as to strength and size required by the express company. All persons are warned to ship Christmas packages early, as the company anticipates a larger amount of business at this season than usual, in addition to regular business.

GIRL DRINKS DISINFECTANT; MAY DIE

Found Lying on Sidewalk; Parents Declare Poisoning Accidental

Catherine Bitthuber, a seventeen-year-old Jamaica Plain girl, was taken to the City Hospital today suffering from poisoning caused by a dose of disinfectant. She is on the dangerous list.

The young woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bitthuber of No. 1 Alveston street, Jamaica Plain, who were at her bedside, declared that the poisoning was accidental.

Miss Bitthuber was employed as a filing clerk in the office of a Boston newspaper. According to her family, she left home yesterday morning in good spirits. She failed to return last night, and the family knew nothing of her whereabouts until notified that the girl was at the hospital. She was found lying on the sidewalk at Tremont and Boylston streets.

FRANK GOULD'S DIVORCE DECREE IS CONFIRMED

Paris, Dec. 10.—The Versailles Court today confirmed the divorce decree awarded to Frank Gould.

Counsel for Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould argued at a hearing in the Versailles Court on December 2 that the divorce decree in favor of Frank Gould was invalid on the ground that the court could not grant a divorce to foreigners unless both parties to the suit consented. Ex-Premier Viviani, representing Mr. Gould, disputed this claim, saying Mrs. Gould herself had recognized the competency of the court by testifying last Summer.

Mrs. Gould is now suing her husband in the New York courts. Confirmation of the divorce as announced in the above dispatch grew out of Mrs. Gould's legal battle to obtain $1,000,000 a year, or the estimate of one-half of Gould's fortune.

LAWRENCE COURT HOLDS MEN IN DUEL EPISODE

Lawrence, Dec. 10.—On charges of carrying dangerous weapons and drunkenness, Sebastian Nichols and Enrico Meluoci, alleged duellists, were held in $2,000 bail in District Court according to the police "the men engaged in a revolver duel in the mill district, following a drunken quarrel over etiquette. Both sustained bullet wounds and are now under surveillance General Hospital. It was feared that Meluoci would not survive his injuries, but is now in danger. Pleas of not guilty were entered.

Hogs Minus Profiteers

The number of hogs in the United States at present—not including profiteers—is estimated at 68,847,000 by Clement, Curtis & Co. of Chicago. The porcine population is about 5,000,000 ahead of the average for five years, but 6,000,000 below that of 1918.

Take Aspirin With Water

If your Aspirin tablets have the name "Bayer" stamped on them, they are genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," proved safe by millions of people. The name "Bayer" identifies the true world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Always drink one or two glasses of water after taking the tablets.

Each unbroken "Bayer package" contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and for Pain.

Always say "Bayer" when buying Aspirin. Then look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages.

HINES HOPES FOR EARLY COAL RELIEF

But Says Restrictions Will Continue Till Production Increases

of six weeks of strike in the mining districts and applying their findings to next year's outlook.

The loss in production during the six weeks of the coal strike is estimated at 41,000,000 tons. Large quantities of coal, which railroads, steel mills, other industries and manufacturing enterprises are accustomed to carry on hand as a safeguard against emergencies have been consumed and if it is not expected that these stocks will be restored to normal for several months after the miners return to work.

There is no indication that the regulations and restrictions of the Federal Fuel Administration will be removed for several months.

The Railroad Administration is now in the progress of making the greatest curtailment of traffic that the nation has ever known.

Approximately 200,000 train miles will be cut from the passenger schedules each day during the remainder of this week.

It is estimated that this will bring about a saving of 12,000 tons of coal a day.

HINES ISSUES STATEMENT.

Restrictions upon consumption will not be modified until the production of coal is sufficient to meet the immediate essential needs of the country, it was announced today at the office of Director General Hines.

The hope is entertained by Director Hines that a single week's production will bring a material improvement in the situation.

Arrangements are being made to put every available car at the disposal of the mines as soon as the miners return to work.

Cars in the lumber and gravel trade will be withdrawn for coal service.

The first step towards bringing conditions back to normal will be the restoration of many of the passenger trains that have been cancelled to conserve coal. The needs of householders for heating will also be taken care of in preference to industries and other consuming interests.

The public utilities will stand next to the householders and every effort will be made to restore to normal conditions stores and office buildings.

WILL RELAX GRADUALLY.

The restrictions will be gradually removed and while the director-general does not expect that the effects of the strike will disappear before Spring comes, he is hopeful that the more drastic rules and regulations on the consumption of coal can be removed by the first of the year if the miners return to work this week.

Violations of the rules and regulations by merchants, office building managers or any one else will be brought to the instant attention of Federal district attorneys by Director Hines, with the request that prosecutions be instituted.

It is also likely local distribution committees will be asked to take cognizance of such violations in making allotments of coal. It is stated that so far only a small number of violations have been brought to the attention of the director-general.

As soon as the miners return to work Director-General Hines will issue a statement setting forth the order in which restrictions in the use of coal will be withdrawn and stating the priority with which industries and other consumers will be given increased allowances.

FOLLOWS PRIORITY LIST.

He indicated today that the list would follow very closely the priority list that has been used in restricting the consumption of coal.

Local stores have been ordered not to open until noon tomorrow and to remain open only until 4 o'clock.

Reports of violations of the fuel restrictions have reached the officials from the Lincoln Hotel to more comfortable quarters in the Odd Fellows building. Conservative leaders among the conference expressed the utmost optimism that a definite end of the strike would be arrived at before nightfall.

John L. Lewis and William Green, acting president and secretary of the mine workers, are making a "sincere, whole-hearted" effort to obtain adoption of the President's proposition, declared a Union official in close touch with the situation.

This official asserted that Lewis and Green had the backing of the "older heads" among the miners' leaders and that they undoubtedly had the ascendancy over the more radical element, said to be led by Frank Farrington of Illinois and Alex Howat of Kansas. That Lewis and Green undoubtedly would emerge victorious from their clash with the radical leaders was unquestioned, it was declared. The Indiana miners at their convention pledged to back their executive, it was indicated as the conference assembled.

The 14 per cent. wage increase offered by the President is no inducement toward acceptance, it was pointed out at miners' headquarters. It is the President's promise of a fair square deal that appeals to the men, it was stated.

Admirers of Governor Name Two Babies 'Calvin Coolidge'

Governor Coolidge today received two letters at his office appraising him that he has two namesakes, newly arrived in the world. They are Calvin Coolidge Bedley, son of Grace and Robert A. Bedley, No. 75 Howard street, Reading, and Calvin Coolidge Marion, son of John T. Marion, a market gardener, No. 201 Cambridge road, Woburn.

The letter from the Bedleys says in part: "We shall keep the hope our boy the significance of the name and what it has meant to all who love freedom and our form of government. May your reward be in Washington."

The other letter was from John F. Briry of Braman, Dow & Company, to whom Mr. Marion had confided his child's name. "We hope," wrote Mr. Briry, "the child will some day be able to shake the hand of the man who stands nearest to the hearts of the people."

Storrow Takes Charge of Coal Situation; Starts Organizing His Forces

Full powers in the enforcement of the fuel regulations were taken over today by James J. Storrow, fuel administrator.

The district coal committee in whom the enforcement of the regulations was vested by Dr. Garfield, Federal fuel administrator, delegated its authority to Mr. Storrow, who, in addition to being fuel administrator, is also vice-chairman of the district committee.

The fuel administrator was today perfecting an organization for carrying out the orders.

This and the conference of governors of the six New England States at the State House today were the outstanding local features of the coal situation. Both the governors and Mr. Storrow believe that New England should act as a unit in the crisis.

No separate notices of the fuel regulations will be issued by Mr. Storrow, according to his present plan. It is assumed that the principal consumers have knowledge of the regulations from newspaper accounts and will be held responsible for their observance.

Offices not connected with municipal, State or Federal affairs or industries of a vital nature are ordered not to use electric lights after 4 p. m. by Dr. Garfield's regulations. Officials of a large realty concern with a clientele of several downtown office buildings said today they were "doing nothing" until they received instructions from the fuel administrator, although they expressed their willingness to co-operate.

Although department stores will open at 11:30 a. m. and close at 5:30 p. m. daily, beginning tomorrow, through the decision of the Retail Trade Board, concerns not members of the organization are not bound to follow those hours. They will be permitted to fix their own hours, providing they do not burn electric lights more than six hours daily.

One of the first actions of the fuel administrator, when he finds violations of the lighting regulations is expected to be a request to the electric lighting companies to discontinue service to offending patrons.

Lewis and Green Fight for Wilson's Plan to Settle Strike of Coal Miners

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—Confidence was manifest among leaders of the United Mine Workers today that President Wilson's proposal for settlement of the strike would be adopted before night.

The conference of union officials resumed its session at 9:30 today, having shifted the meeting place

ZERO WEATHER ON ITS WAY TO BOSTON

observer states, the temperature will range from 10 to 15 degrees above for this city, and colder in outlying districts. Zero weather is expected later in the week.

The storm responsible for the increasing chill was central yesterday over the Ohio valley. It moved northward with such rapidity that it was central today over the St. Lawrence valley.

Today it was freezing in Galveston, Tex. Throughout the North Central and Western States the mercury hovered between 26 and 14 degrees below.

At Des Moines, Ia., the glasses registered 20 below, with 14 at Omaha, Neb. The coldest spot is White River, Ont., at 44 below. The coldest place in the United States is Williston, N. D., at 26 below.

In the Central States the wave was marked with raging blizzards. Southward heavy falls of rain caused tremendous damage. Property losses amounting to above two million dollars resulted from the floods in Alabama. A million-dollar damage was caused by the breaking of the big power dam in Tallahassee. The water, sweeping over the debris, poured down the valley, carrying death and destruction in its train.

People living in the lowlands abandoned everything in their rush to higher ground. The towns had been warned by wire and telephone of the impending flood.

To the northward the storm rages furiously, being marked by a heavy fall of snow.

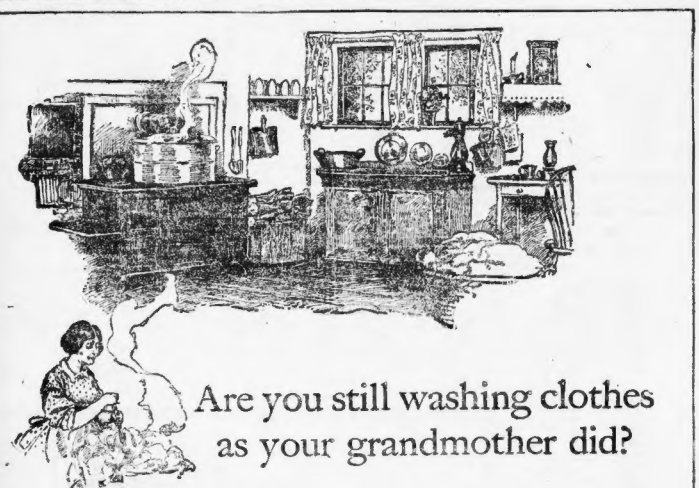
The advance guard of the cold wave made itself felt in Boston around 1 o'clock today, when the temperature had fallen from 55 degrees at 8 o'clock to 46.

New England was one of the warmest sections of the country early today. Southern Florida was its only competitor.

Intense suffering, most of it due to the fuel shortage, has followed in the wake of the cold wave. Many towns in Kansas are reported entirely out of fuel and a serious fuel situation is reported in Montana.

The pinch of the coal shortage also is being felt with increasing vigor in Illinois. In Chicago, with the mercury at five degrees below zero early today, charitable institutions found themselves taxed to the utmost to care for requests that came in for aid.

More than 6,000 families in Chicago, it is estimated, have appealed for help from municipal authorities.



Are you still washing clothes as your grandmother did?

UP at daybreak—rubbing, rubbing, for hours, over the wash tubs—

Standing beside the hot stove, turning and lifting the heavy steaming garments in the boiler—filling the room with clouds of steam—

That was the way grandmother washed—not because she wanted to—but because she had to. No better way had ever been found.

Now a better way has been found—a way that saves all this labor, all this wear on the clothes.

The modern way of washing—You soak the clothes clean

Rinso, the wonderful new form of soap—in granules—makes this new way of washing possible.

The fine granules are so rich in cleansing value, they loosen every particle of dirt as the clothes are soaking overnight. In the morning you rinse them and only the very soiled spots, like the edges of collars and cuffs, will need a light rubbing—just between your hands, in the Rinso suds.

You do not boil the clothes, or give them any real rubbing. You use no cake soap or "washing powder." And one package of Rinso does your whole week's washing.

Makes clothes last twice as long

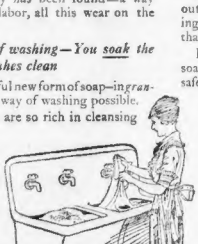
It is rubbing on the washboard that wears out your clothes quickly—it is harsh "washing powders" that make fabrics "fall apart"—that destroy colors.

Rinso loosens all the dirt while the clothes soak and it is so pure that your clothes are as safe in the Rinso suds as in pure water alone.

And Rinso cleans as perfectly in cold water as in warm!

Next time do your washing the modern way—the wonderful Rinso way. Soak your clothes clean—instead of the old rubbing and boiling way.

Order Rinso from your grocer today—and follow the easy directions on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux).



Soak the clothes and rinse—that's all!

GERMANY ANGLING FOR FOREIGN BANK DEPOSITS

By KARL H. VON WEIGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.
(Special Basis Dispatch.)

Berlin, Dec. 10.—The German government, I am informed, has under consideration the question of asking the national assembly to pass a law exempting deposits of foreigners in German banks, from all taxation, with the possible exception of an income tax on the interest paid on each deposit.

This is one of the measures contemplated to stiffen the exchange in German money. It is believed that such exemption from taxes would result in a large part of the 17,000,000,000 marks, now held outside Germany, which depresses the value of marks, being sent into Germany and deposited in the German banks drawing 2½ per cent. interest while waiting for the value of the mark to rise.

MEDFORD TEACHERS GRANTED HIGHER PAY

Superintendent Fred H. Nickerson of the Medford schools gave the Medford high and grade teachers a pleasant surprise when he announced that the school committee had granted their petition for an increase in wages. A maximum increase of $300 to take effect January 1, 1920, and another increase of $100 to take effect on January 1, 1921, was the award of the School Board.

The increase affects 208 Medford teachers, in both the high school and the grammar grades and was given by a unanimous vote of the board.

HAVERHILL SHOE MEN STANDARDIZE WAGES

Haverhill, Dec. 10.—Announcement has been made by officials of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, with a membership of 15,000 workers, a majority of the craft in Haverhill, that a scheme to classify local shoe factories and standardize prices and wage scales has been adopted.

It is stated that the manufacturers look kindly upon the proposition and when the schedule is returned to the union, if the firms are not satisfactory, a joint committee of manufacturers and representatives of the union will be selected to adjust difficulties.

ENTHUSIASTIC RALLIES FOR CANDIDATE CASSIDY

John J. Cassidy, candidate for the City Council, attended many rallies in the Charlestown district last night. Last evening he discussed the issues of the campaign, and pledged to work for the best interests of the City of Boston, if elected.

BRITAIN STRIKES SNAG IN TREATING WITH REDS

London, Dec. 10.—Lord Stanmore, speaking on behalf of the government, said no agreement had yet been reached with the Soviet government in the negotiations regarding exchanges of prisoners.

The proposals of Maxim Litvinoff, the Bolshevist spokesman in the negotiations, are too comprehensive to make possible a rapid conclusion. It has been agreed, however, to allow clothing to be sent to the British prisoners in Russia.

MAN REFUSES AID AS BABY DROWNS

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 6. — While he was playing in a park here, three-year-old Joseph Gonsalves was drowned in a shallow pool of water. A playmate ran to a man sitting on a bench and told him the lad was struggling in the water.

"Can't help it," the man replied to the boy. Before other aid could be had the child was dead.

STREET SINGERS DONATE $104.24 TO CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND

'LIFER' GIVES TO AID POOR

Dayton Club of Roxbury Contributes Money Collected at Dance

Send contributions to "CASHIER BOSTON AMERICAN CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND, 90 Summer street, Boston, Mass." The office of the Christmas Basket Fund is 82 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.

give the unfortunate a lift and he believes that in contributing to the American basket fund he will reach a great many little children who otherwise would be without a good Christmas dinner.

Plans for the double tag day on Friday and Saturday next are progressing smoothly. Permits have been obtained to place girls in leading hotels, office and bank buildings, City Hall, theatre lobbies and other indoor location. The tag day will not be postponed, so that if the weather is stormy the young women will still be able to gather dimes and quarters for this worthy cause without endangering their health.

There are still several good locations in hotels and buildings which have not been assigned and if girls of 16 years of age or over who have not yet enlisted their services in this great charity desire to lend a helping hand by selling tags they should communicate with the basket fund editor at No. 82 Boylston street.

RIVALRY AMONG GIRLS.

Girls who have volunteered for Friday or Saturday are vieing with one another to get large sums. Miss May G. Hurley, former yeoman (F) at Boston Navy Yard, has already got a good start. A prominent business man has promised to stop to cheek for $50 in her coin box Friday. She believes that with this start she will finish among the leaders.

Mrs. Flora Roff of No. 58 Tonawanda street, Dorchester, will have charge of the girls and women who will act as tag sellers. Mrs. Roff served in a similar capacity last year on tag day in aid of the fund and the success of that collection was largely due to her efforts.

Mrs. Roff is being ably assisted in the arrangements for tag day by Mrs. Albert J. Woodcock, of the Stage Women's War Relief; Mrs. Stockton, president of the Film Club; Mrs. Carrie F. Sheehan of Charlestown, who is associated with several charitable organizations; Miss A. O. Du Bois of Professional Women's Club, Mrs. Mabel Going of Brookline, Mrs. Wesley Chandler of Dorchester, Mrs. Ella Silver, Mrs. Gertrude Schinn of Back Bay, Miss Zoeth Brown of Hyde Park and Mrs. A. Wright of Roxbury.

The street singers who entertain from a motor truck, kindly donated by C. Bowen, are adding substantial sums to the fund. The collection for Saturday amounted to $1156, and that of Monday totaled $6139. Everyperson who contributes to the young ladies on the truck is given a colored Santa Claus souvenir bangle.

The next sum of $1057 was collected by the employes of the sewing department at the State House.

Another $1000 was collected at the Boston Club in Roxbury turned in $825 collected at their dance in December, and the dance committee consisted of Joseph Darrell, John F. Fitzgerald, Joseph [illegible] and Irving Lewis.

One of the most striking letters received from children comes from five-year-old Ethel B. Thorndike, who sent ten cents to buy a five-lb. apple for some poor girl. Ethel wants the apple placed right on top of the basket so it will attract the eye when it goes by. Think of a lot of hungry little boys and girls in a single squawky band.

"LIFER" CONTRIBUTES.

Dear Boston American: I did a dance for a lady on the gate one thirteen cents, dear Boston American all please to a nine red apple so put it in a basket for a merry little girl by some of them shinny red ones I like them best put it rite on top of.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or gray.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your chief charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. If it is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. The ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Girls Needed to Aid Basket Fund on Tag Days

Women who wish to make hungry children happy Christmas may do so by selling tags in aid of Boston American Christmas Basket Fund Friday and Saturday of this week. Apply to Basket Fund Editor, No. 82 Boylston street, Boston.

And so, in behalf of my fellow inmates I respectfully enclose $5.50 for a noble and worthy cause."

What better proof could there be of the wide appeal of the basket fund than these two letters—one from an innocent child of five—the other from a man incarcerated for life in prison?

From far away Eastport, Me., where the fog is thicker than in London comes a contribution of $1 from a little girl named Ina Morse.

The fine sum of $51 was collected by employes of Hancroft, Walker Company, and sent to the fund.

Heart-rending appeals for baskets come to the basket fund editor in every mail. A few are printed below.

Dear Boston American: Will you kindly send me a basket, as I am very poor. My husband went away five months ago and left me with four little children. I had to take my oldest from school and put her to work.

I work myself, but it takes a lot of money to take care of four children. Please try and not forget us, as we need it very much.

Dear Sir: I have five little children and my husband is sickly. Last Christmas and the one before the children did not know it was really Christmas. The Winter before my husband was sick all Winter of typhoid fever, and last Winter we were all sick from influenza. This Winter he is unable to work to buy enough to eat and keep us warm, for it is so cold in this part of the country or State. I would be glad to get some out-of-style clothes, for I can sew and make them over for the children. The oldest child is seven years and the baby one year. The children would surely appreciate a Christmas basket.

Dear Sir—I am a girl fourteen years old and am the only one working in the family. I get $8 a week. My father is very sick and has not been working for eight months. I am the oldest of eight children. You must understand how hard it is to support such a large family with only eight dollars income. I am asking or begging you to let us have some kind of a basket for Christmas. We have no coal and not much food. I walk to work every day to save the ten cents carfare.

Filene's 72 Shopping hours to Christmas

Owing to the coal shortage store hours beginning tomorrow are 11.30 A. M. to 5.30 P. M. "Shop early" is therefore a slogan of more than usual importance this year.

Are your fingers all thumbs?

CAN you tie up a Christmas package so that it looks like a real gift? Let the Filene bundle wrapping shop on the balcony tie up your packages. They will look worth many dollars more. No charge for the work: small charge for fancy bows, ribbons, etc., if you want them.

DO YOU GET TIRED SHOPPING? Try having afternoon tea in the Filene restaurant: see how it refreshes.

HAVE YOU A MAN ON YOUR LIST? Don't know what to give him? Visit the gift booths for men on the second floor where are scarfs, mufflers, handkerchiefs, shaving sets, jewelry, slippers, brief cases, leather gifts—all man-chosen for men!

WHY NOT USE THE 'PHONE? Quite a few items on the list can be cleaned up via the Filene 'Phone Shopping Service. Several intelligent women sit at desks with telephone receivers and take your order intelligently, filling it the same way. Try it. Call Beach 1.

ARE YOU PUTTING VALUE IN YOUR GIFTS? Remember that value is as important at Christmas time as in the other eleven months. Look for Filene better values: they add to the value of the gift you give.

LET FILENE'S SMOOTH YOUR SHOPPING WORRY AND LET FILENE VALUES ADD TO YOUR GIFTS!

DEALERS AIM TO SHOW WOOD HE'S WRONG

Ask Him to Attend Conference Following His Threat to Open Store

Lawrence, Dec. 10—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, whose threat to build a mammoth cost price department store has enraged merchants here, was today requested to confer with the president of the Chamber of Commerce and a committee.

The request was contained in a letter signed by Richard Ward, president of the chamber, and asked that Mr. Wood attend the conference at his convenience.

The only explanation given out for this action was the statement that the Chamber feels that Mr. Wood has been misinformed regarding the situation. It was stated that at the conference the members hope to show him that they are not profiteers.

Wood has bluntly informed the business men that unless they reduce the cost of merchandise and foods, he will build a ten-story department store and sell to the public at cost price, a threat which many view as a serious menace to the business welfare of the big stores.

Wood maintains that every time he raises the wages of the mill employes the cost of food and merchandise in the city is jumped, intimating that the action of the business men is unwarranted.

15,000 WOULD BENEFIT.

He says the carrying out of his plan rests solely on the action of the merchants of Lawrence. He states he will give them a reasonable length of time to lower prices, but intimates that decided opposition on the part of the merchants may compel him to immediately execute his scheme, instead of waiting until Spring to build a store as he originally intended.

The American Woolen Company operatives, who number about 15,000, would benefit directly under the Wood plan. Everything to eat and wear would be carried in stock.

Prominent men in the local merchant world stated that it was doubtful if the stockholders of the company would allow a half million to be spent on the building with no dividends coming from it.

INSULT, MERCHANTS CLAIM.

"Wood's plan is a direct insult to every merchant in Lawrence," said L. E. Bennink, president of a Lawrence department store. Doubt was expressed by J. H. Hunter, a prominent merchant, that any one building could cater to the wants of 15,000 people.

A. B. Sutherland, a business man says: "I am in a position to make a comparison between Lawrence and other cities of Massachusetts, and I find Lawrence lower in prices than any city in the Commonwealth.

"I know of no merchants in Lawrence, who could retire on profits made in the war. The average profit today is no more than it was before the war, and if there has been any exploiting or profiteering, it has been by the manufacturers and the middlemen, and not by the retailers."

CONFERENCE TO TAKE UP TURKEY'S FUTURE

London, Dec. 10.—A special Cabinet meeting was held today to consider the Anglo-French economic position, and to make preparations for the discussions which will follow the arrival of Premier Clemenceau. It is understood that the future of Turkey will play a leading part in the conferences which will begin tomorrow.

PAWTUCKET GIRL IS KILLED BY EXPRESS

Pawtucket, Dec. 10.—Mary Abel, a mill worker, was killed by a Boston-bound express train while walking on the New Haven railroad tracks to the factory where she was employed. Her sister, who was with her, leaped aside as the big train thundered down upon them.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

WINS $50,000 IN 11,500 MILE FLIGHT

Capt. Ross Smith Traverses Europe, Asia and Pacific in Thrilling Contest

By International News Service.

Port Darwin, South Australia, Dec. 10.—Captain Ross Smith, Australian aviator, arrived here today, winning the $50,000 prize for the first flight from England to Australia.

The England-to-Australia air race was the most spectacular and thrilling contest ever attempted. The prize of $50,000 was offered by the Australian government.

Captain Ross Smith left the Hounslow aerodrome near London, November 12, on the 11,500 miles flight.

He crossed Europe and Asia, flying over France, Italy, the Balkans, Turkey, Persia, India, Siam and Java.

One of the conditions was that the flight must be accomplished in thirty days.

When India was reached the flight developed into a thrilling contest between Ross Smith and Etienne Poulet, a French flyer. They were only forty-five minutes apart when Rangoon, India, was reached, but from there on the Australian outdistanced his competitor.

Little Girl Loses Purse, Souvenir of World War

There will be no merriment in Christmas for eight-year-old Gertrude De Ring of No. 51 Forest street, Roxbury, unless someone who reads this item finds and returns her most valued possession, a light purple purse, souvenir of the world war, which she lost on a street car.

The purse, a Christmas gift itself, was sent her by her father two years ago. It is of purple velvet, lined with purple silk. Inscribed on it in gilt, is her name, on one side, and "world war 1917-1918" on the other.

It was made by a wounded French soldier, a man who had lost both his legs in the struggle against Germany.

Gertrude's father, Edward De Ring, an army private, has not yet fully recovered from his experiences in the world war. Gertrude says that whoever finds the bag may keep the money it contained. But she prays for the return of the bag itself.

MAIL DEPARTMENT OF ARMY STORES CLOSES

The mail order department of the Army Retail Stores, which closed some time ago, finished up its work today and went out of business. Sixty employes were discharged as a result. A few bales of cotton reclaimed blankets were put on sale at the stores today at $1 a pair, together with new barrack bags, at seventy-five cents, and baking powder at nine cents.

GIRL STUDENTS DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

Flames Menace Woodland Park Preparatory School at West Newton

One hundred girl students at the Woodland Park School at West Newton, ranging in age from nine to seventeen years, were driven from their rooms early today when fire broke out in a basement kitchen.

The structure, formerly the Woodland Park Hotel, at which Yale teams feasted immediately preceding contests with Harvard at Cambridge, was filled with smoke and damaged to the extent of $2,000.

About a year ago the building was remodelled as a preparatory school for Lasell Seminary. It is located at Washington street and Commonwealth avenue, and has an ell in which is a modern kitchen.

Smoke from the fire, which was of unknown origin, penetrated the entire building. The students were aroused and marshalled by their teachers to the lower entrance hall. They remained there quietly until the blaze was extinguished after four hours' work on the part of the firemen. The fire got into the walls, making it difficult to subdue.

The girls were permitted to return to their rooms at 6.30, and, despite the damage from the blaze, breakfast was prepared in the kitchen where the fire started.

FALL RIVER WANTS $2,000,000 MEMORIAL

Fall River, Dec. 10.—A petition to the Legislature for a loan of $2,000,000 to be used for a new municipal building here, which will also take the form of a memorial for the Fall River men who fought in the world war, has been prepared by Mayor James H. Kay.

Court Rules Miss Ryan Mother of 'Baby Irene'

Toronto, Dec. 10.—The legal battle over "Baby Irene," whom Mrs. Dolly L. Matters of Chicago claims as hers and whom she is charged with kidnapping, was settled in the Ontario Supreme Court when Judge Lennox declared Miss Mary Ryan the mother of the child. If the court decision is upheld on an appeal, Mrs. Matters will lose the right to a large estate willed her by her husband on condition that she become a mother.

SENATE ACCEPTS NEW PLAN TO BAR 'REDS'

Passes Lodge Resolution to Apply $600,000 to Immigration Bureau's Work

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today laid down a policy of restricted immigration, which Congress is expected to endorse. A resolution sponsored by Senator Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, providing that $600,000, appropriated by Congress to meet expenses of regulating the further entry of criminal or other objectionable aliens to American ports, be placed at once at the government's disposal, was passed without roll call, immediately upon being presented.

The sentiment of the committee was that Congress should co-operate in every way to aid the government in barring "Reds" from this country, as well as in deporting those identified with Bolshevistic, I. W. W., and similar movements.

Membership in the I. W. W. did not warrant deportation. Thomas W. Gregory, then Attorney-General, ruled in 1918, and it required an overt act to constitute a deportable offence. Immigration Commissioner Caminetti today told the House Immigration Committee.

During the period of the war the Department of Justice filed with the Department of Labor a large number of records of information against aliens in the United States, looking to deportation investigations and proceedings. The Department of Labor did not follow always the recommendations of the Department of Justice, Caminetti told the committee.

LEVERHULME'S WINNIPEG FACTORY ON 6-HOUR DAY

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 10.—Carrying out his theories on labor questions, Lord Leverhulme, British manufacturer, who is on his way to Russia, today granted the employes of the Royal Crown Soap Company of Winnipeg a six-hour day without reduction of pay.

The next President will be elected by women

In politics you get what you ask for. And the women of America are going to ask for—and get—the man who will be the next President of the United States. What the platform of the feminine voters is going to be, how it will be organized, what women should vote for,—all these vital problems of government are outlined by Anne Martin, Independent candidate for United States Senator.

She asked her divorced husband for a job—

It was a topsy-turvy day, this wet, unpleasant Friday the 13th. Miss Keane, the newspaper society editor knew it. She knew it as well as Mrs. Treadwell who asked her divorced husband for a job. Food in Mid-Autumn

Good Housekeeping this month shows how to prepare a real mid-Autumn dinner. Together with the menus and the numerous ways of serving these delicious meals, are tested recipes, secured appropriately from Massachusetts. There are five very helpful articles in this department for November.

A few other big features

In the same issue, additional stories by: William J. Locke, James Oliver Curwood, Rebecca Hooper Eastman; Articles on: Decorating the Sun Parlor; What Women Physicians are Doing; Gifts that Children Can Make, Needlework; Gifts Easily Made Out of Wall Paper and Shellac; Bathing and its Relation to Health; Two pages of cutouts in color for the kiddies by Sheila Young, together with Harrison Cady's famous bug pictures. A 258 page issue—the biggest publication for women on the newsstands.

Their worlds were poles apart. He was of the people and she was of aristocratic birth. It is the old, old story that is forever new—new because it has been touched by a master hand, because it deals with a new conflict—between love and labor—a conflict every man and every woman may soon have to face. "Children of Storm", by I. A. R. WYLIE, begins where most novels end.

The Real Diary of a Real Boy

Here is another boy who will set America laughing—"Plupy" Shute. His diary, so delightfully humorous, is infused with a charm of other days—the days when you were a boy up in New England, or the Middle West, or down South. This diary places the author, Judge Henry A Shute, with Mark Twain and Booth Tarkington—the literary fathers of a few immortal boys.

If you have a job, you are being watched

Love cannot change women. But other things can. And those other things that happen every day, no matter what job you have, are the things that your employer watches. There is an heretofore unexpressed truth in "The Little Girl in Business." Another true article in this issue deals with a woman who made a tremendous success by sticking to a motto.

Will Prohibition Prohibit?

What is going to happen to the patent medicines and flavoring extracts that contain alcohol? Will doctors revive the practice of prescribing whiskey as a remedial agent? What brews may be made at home? These questions are all answered completely by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in this issue.

A reader service department

Every one of the 295 different advertisements in November Good Housekeeping is part of a genuine reader-service department. Every advertised product is guaranteed by Good Housekeeping, the acceptance of the advertisement being subject to our own exhaustive laboratory tests. And each one, fundamentally, does much more than tell how to spend money, the announcements show how to save time and energy; they insure greater service and thereby result in real economy. DE VALERA DENIES COOTE'S HINT OF IRISH PROFITEERING IN WAR

New York, Dec. 10.—Feeling that in his hasty and bantering verbal replies to the members of the Ulster Unionist Council, printed exclusively in yesterday's Boston American, he did not consider the various topics in as full detail as he would have done had he seen a written copy of the Ulster men's remarks first, President De Valera today issued to the American the following supplementary statement:

"It is obvious that the merely reported statements of Mr. Coote and his friends would be altogether too insecure a basis for serious discussion. My idea is that when his statements have appeared in public form in the Boston American, such of them as need answering will be answered by us.

"The statements of Mr. Coote, which appeared in his interview of yesterday, are so hollow that they really need no answer; for instance, the hollowness of the statement that I was a traitor to Ireland must appear evident to anyone who knows that I was judged by the Irish people to be worthy of the position which I was elected to.

"If we are spreading a 'propaganda of falsehood,' would he give specific instances of what the falsehoods are?

HOW ENGLAND PROFITS.

"The money for the building of houses, like the money for land purchase, was not a present to the Irish people—simple a loan on the security of Irish rates and Irish land. England, for example, raised the money for land purchase at a lower rate of interest than that which she charges the farmers, and so makes a handsome yearly sum on the transaction. But even if instead of being a mere loan, which the Irish people themselves, if they were free, could have negotiated in at least as good terms, it were a present tax Mr. Coote would make it appear, the British government would only be returning one-half of the sum which the British-appointed financial relations commission found Ireland had been robbed of since the so-called union, in violation of its terms.

"Mr. Coote would lead one to infer that the Irish people had been profiteering during the war. He would make it appear that money in Irish banks has increased tenfold. The truth is they have scarcely increased twofold.

"The figures are: 1913, £62,142,000; 1918, £121,191,000.

"Indeed, when the diminished purchasing power of the British pound is taken into account, it is doubtful if any real and genuine increase at all has taken place. But Mr. Coote reduces the figures before the war to a quarter of what they really were, and makes the figures after the war much more than they really are.

QUOTES NORTHCLIFFE.

"And this is his 'Truth.' If there is a talk of truth let us have it. Here is what Lord Northcliffe said during the war of the expenditure of war money in Ireland:

"'The palatial factories that have risen up in Great Britain in the last two and three-quarters years have no counterpart in Ireland, so that when the war is over the British munitions equipped establishments are turned to peaceful use, Irish wages and opportunities will be exactly as they are now.

"'It seems as though every country among the allies is to receive some war bonus, i. e., improved economic conditions and legislation—except Ireland. At this moment when English and Scotch industrial centres are "enjoying the war," Irish salaries and wages are the lowest paid in the British-speaking world.

"'Many Irish workers are receiving less in a week than some English workers sign at the present time making in a day. I do not know to whose neglect it is due, that of the £40,000,000 ($200,000,000) being spent weekly on the war, but little goes to Ireland.'

CLERKS UNDERPAID.

"Here is how the general secretary of the National Union of Clerks, London, describes the conditions in Belfast:

"'In spite of its prosperity, and in spite of the fact that it was one of the richest cities in the kingdom, the clerks in the textile industry were the worst paid of their class in the city.'

"And as I said before, England takes from the Irish people in taxation over £180,000,000, whereas the expenditure in Ireland was only a third of that sum.

"But what is the use of all this? There is nothing in the statements of these men but the old foundationless assertions which are being exposed so often. The questions which are fundamental are those I have addressed to Mr. Coote. You had better get him to answer these as a beginning.

"(4) Is the Irish question not in truth a very simple one, very easy to understand, very easy to find a solution for? Is it not simply a question of the domination of one nation by another, militarily the stronger, and the unwillingness of that stronger nation, by reason of its own interest, to allow the weaker 'to choose its own way of life and obedience?'

LIKENED TO BELGIUM.

"(5) Is it not true that Irishmen and Irish women, who are striving to secure for their country the same independence that Washington and Jefferson and their comrades secured for the United States, are persecuted by the foreign government that wishes to keep their country in dependence and servitude, and that the people of Ireland are suffering today practically from all the grievances against which the United Colonies revolted here in 1776?

"(6) Is it not a fact that British rule in Ireland is at present a military regime—a regime of an army of occupation comparable to the German regime in Belgium when the Germans entered into effective control of Belgian territory?

"(7) Is it not a fact that Ireland is suffering from the consequences that naturally follow in the train of the military occupation of any country—denial of the right of public assembly, suppression of free speech on platform and in press, suppression of the people's parliament, imprisonment of the people's parliamentary representatives, denial of the right of trial by jury, and of the other safeguards to individual liberty which customarily obtain in civilized communities; violent acts of aggression, such as the murders of unarmed civilians, committed by the forces of occupation, and for which the guilty parties, though well known, and against which coroner's juries have returned definite incriminating verdicts, have never been punished or brought to trial, and in there not evidence also of the inevitable concomitant to such abuses of power in the retaliation by the Irish people upon members of the forces of occupation?

LOYALISTS AND TORIES.

"(8) Is it not a fact that history shows that whenever nations were struggling for their freedom against the rule of the foreigner there was always a section of the people who supported the foreigner — for example the Loyalists and Tories in Washington's day? Is it right that such a minority section should impose its veto on the will of the majority?

"(9) Is it not a fact that the movement for Irish independence has had for its most distinguished leaders during the past century and a half Irishmen who were not of the Catholic faith?

"The members of the Ulster Unionist Council are the representatives of a political party in Ireland which, at the general elections held a year ago under British supervision, and according to British ballot law, secured only 306,712 votes out of a total of 1,214,719 votes cast, i.e., they are the representatives of a minority political party that secured the votes of only some twenty-three per cent. of the Irish electors.

"They say, they are come to America in the interests of law and order, of truth and honesty, of fair play and principle. Nothing could be better; we, too, are here in the interest of these selfsame principles. So that we start on common ground. We are certain the American public will judge between us on these as a basis. Let the question at issue between us then be argued out, logically and calmly, on a basis of facts, without the introduction of epithets which are simply abusive, or assertions which are without foundation.

"It is admitted by at least one member of the delegation that there are two governments in Ireland today. Now, one of these governments is a government elected by the Irish people by ballot on a basis of adult suffrage—demonstrably a native government—a 'government of the people, by the people, and for the people'—the other no less demonstrably an alien government—a government without the consent of the governed—a government maintained solely by foreign bayonets in the interest of a foreign imperialism.

"Now the question is—the American nation has of necessity to recognize one or the other of these governments. It has to make up its mind which government it is to be—the popular democratic government of right, or the autocratic imperialistic government of might. The decision lies solely with Americans, and so the question which we are agitating is very distinctly and definitely an American question.

"To make the points at issue between us, the representatives of the people's government—the government of the republic—and the representatives of the Irish minority which supports the Imperial government, it would be well if the delegation would answer the following questions for the American public:

"(1) What right has the British government to rule in Ireland?

"(2) How does it maintain its rule there today—how has it maintained its rule there in the past?

"(3) Why should not the majority of the people of the Irish nation determine the government of Ireland as is done in all free national States?

"These questions can all be readily answered. They are questions of fact. The American people need to be enlightened on these facts if they are to come to a true judgment. If there is any difference of opinion between us as to facts, we can arrange a commission of investigation. Speaking for the government of the republic and for all Irish republicans, we are ready to support and to give every possible facility to such a commission. It could be composed, say, of two clergymen nominated by us, two nominated by the Ulster Unionist delegation, and a chairman on whom we could mutually agree, all to be Americans and all Protestants.

"This commission could report to the American people with authority and as a fact-finding body. We trust that the delegation will debate this question with us freely and frankly before the American republic. We are ready to meet them anywhere on any common platform."

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

Thousands of Children Suffer from Worms and Their Mothers Do Not Know What the Trouble Is.

Signs of worms are: Constipation, sour stomach, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face or leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, feeling of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Mrs. H. N. Roberts, 502 Asylum street, Flint, Mich., used Dr. True's Elixir for her little baby girl when she was sick, and Mrs. Roberts wrote to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My little girl is relieved of her worms." And in a later letter wrote: "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller) that helped her." If your child is ill start giving Dr. True's Elixir at once. Buy Dr. True's Elixir at your dealers at once. Three sizes.

What Mr. Newcomer discovers as to land available for manufacturing sites in Boston

Dear Randall:

I have been spending a great deal of time looking into what Boston can offer us for a location for our plant. From the manufacturer's standpoint nothing requires more careful analysis and thorough weighing of pros and cons.

I find that along its water-front Boston has plenty of land splendidly adapted for manufacturing sites. One such location impressed me particularly—about 20,000,000 square feet of land next to South Boston. It lies two and a half miles from the City Hall, fronting on Dorchester Bay, and includes over 4,000,000 square feet of land ideal for factory and warehouse purposes.

Here could be erected to the most excellent advantage not only factories and warehouses, but docks and terminals; the site lies on the water-front, with a railroad siding already built, thus enjoying facilities for both rail and water transportation that you couldn't beat anywhere, and there is a first-rate cartage road running directly to it.

And there are other locations as good or better. Not only are the facilities for receiving raw materials and coal and shipping manufactured products, both by rail and water, excellent here, but the perfect net-work of steam and electric lines which covers all Metropolitan Boston gives quick and easy communication between home, office and factory.

Then, too, the open country just outside the city limits offers big site possibilities for large industries which must have considerable ground for wide yards, storage space and sheds.

I can assure you, Randall, that the manufacturer looking for an ideal factory site will find it here in Boston!

Your partner,

J.A. Newcomer

—and the reason?

Not price, certainly. Men who patronize such places as these can buy what they want.

There's no doubt about it—they want Fatimas because of the Fatima blend.

Fatima contains more Turkish tobacco than any other Turkish blend cigarette. Not too much Turkish, like the over-rich straight Turkish brands; not too little, as in cheaper blends which lack Fatima's taste and smoothness. Fatima contains just enough Turkish—just enough to taste right, and just enough to leave a man feeling right even if he smokes more than usual.

Why not try "just enough Turkish"?

"FRIVOLITIES" RIOT OF COLOR AND SONG

Koun Sisters and Beautiful Chorus Feature of Review at Opera House

By FRED J. McISAAC,
Dramatic Editor.

The Frivolities of 1919, the new musical entertainment at the Boston Opera House, opened on a hockey dance and fur coat extravaganza. Then the show settled into a more elaborate scene and a somewhat quieter tone.

CHORUS BEAUTIFUL.

The costumes are indescribably gorgeous in the best word in riotous combination beauty and color [illegible] display [illegible] the prize [illegible] nothing but a [illegible] of specialties without [illegible] the absence of any [illegible] the Apollo Sisters in [illegible] Brothers of the revue, as G. M. Anderson, the producer, calls it, [illegible] remnant from art to the [illegible] burlesque.

KOUN SISTERS SCORE.

It is almost a shock to have a brilliant singing number by the Koun Sisters followed by a Dan Coupe Brothers' pedal [illegible] for sugar [illegible] and Salzedo's [illegible] voice.

Here Lewis is the chief offender in the sport. He is exceeding [illegible] but his moods are low. If this is past [illegible] I should refuse [illegible] stand it up.

Sara and Nelson Koun sang with great skill and beautiful tone the Italian love song, and Sara introduces into a Spanish scene Arditi's "Thread of Venice," a celebrated number and is favored by Melba. And she sings it well.

DAN HALPERIN PLEASING.

As ever the rough stuff of Mary Lewis' Nan Halperin supplies most of the comedy. Her methods are familiar to all followers of vaudeville.

John Piven, a light tenor, sang sweetly what we had to take [illegible] and [illegible] was painful.

The Parisian [illegible] of clever dancers [illegible] Dandy Little Cadets [illegible] and Barnett, Daily and Jean [illegible] Charles Morris, Esther Norton Green and Jenk [illegible] were [illegible] unusual during the evening.

[illegible] the memory you carry away is that of a beautiful girl in costumes that dazzle a man and make any woman green-eyed.

MOVIE WINNER MUST BE ADEPT IN MAKEUP ART

Miss Ruth Kendrick of No. 47 Rockaway street, Lynn, who hopes to succeed Clara Kimball Young as a movie star.

Ruth Blake (at top) of No. 207 Shawmut avenue, and (below) Miss Irene Hamlin of Hollander street, Roxbury.

Here an idea of the work that will confront the lucky young lady who is chosen to assume Clara Kimball Young's place as star of Equity Pictures when Miss Young retires from active screen labors two years hence.

So great is the contrast the theatre manager is having a hard time [illegible] patrons who are well acquainted with Miss Youngs features [illegible] Bird in the Eyes of [illegible] at the Waldorf Theatre is [illegible] Kimball, Young.

Make-up for film work is an important [illegible] in the life of a player [illegible] three months will be devoted to [illegible] the successful candidate [illegible] how to make-up and how not to [illegible] the camera.

Clara Kimball Young herself will teach the fortunate young lady after which her tuition in acting and [illegible] of character will be begun. Los Angeles is to be the seat of the teaching and of the work after Miss Young leaves the screen to star in a new play which is being written by Max Marcin, author of "Eyes of Youth," and which will not be produced for two years.

PAPER CUTS ARE FORCED BY 1920 CONTRACTS

Mills Already Bound to Produce 50 Per Cent. More Than Capacity

Washington, Dec. 9—Immediate reduction in the size of newspapers magazines and other publications is governmental action is necessary because already the [illegible] contracts for next year are [illegible] per cent more paper than is produced, Representative Anthony [illegible] Kan., big paper consumer, declared today.

Many papers particularly those in the smaller [illegible] will soon be forced out of business unless a generous reduction order is secured, he declared. Mr Anthony failed to attend a hearing before the committee today [illegible] to accomplish this reduction but sent an order of the press by the Post office Department to reduce the size of as much as one-quarter [illegible].

The House Postoffice and Post Roads Committee proposed Mr Anthony consideration of the bill next Monday, at which time the Publishers of the New York Times and possibly other publishers would appear in support of the plan.

The paper situation has been made acute through a great increase in demand, due to an unprecedented volume of advertising, and at the same time a very slight increase in production," Mr Anthony said.

"The trouble apparently is that no one newspaper or group of newspapers or publications is willing to take real steps to conserve paper, fearing its action will drive advertising to its competitors. In this case it is the duty of the government to step in. Many papers in smaller cities have wired me they are unable to make contracts at any price for next year. The paper simply cannot be had, and the price has jumped from two cents a pound before the war up to 5 and even 15 cents now.

"I am not prompted definitely [illegible] in general I believe my bill will save this paper used in Sunday papers one-third, reduce the Sunday consumption one-half, decrease the [illegible] used by magazines 25 per [illegible]

According to the telegrams I received from publishers in general support [illegible] bill, while certain magazine [illegible] protested against it.

MORE JUVENILE CRIME DUE TO SUGAR SHORTAGE

London, Dec. 9—Judge Henry No[illegible] of the [illegible] says that the increase in [illegible] is due to the sugar shortage. He says the child's appetite demands sugar [illegible] so it steals it if it cannot be had [illegible] others are.

Judge Neil found that at the London [illegible] courts 50 per cent of the children tried were charged with stealing candy.

The judge says Englishmen have [illegible] there is more profit in [illegible] a war for making all who [illegible] than in selling it direct to the people.

MOONEY IS SURE OF VICTORY

Newton Boxer Is Not Daunted by Brown's Quick Disposal of Bergin

By JACK CONWAY.

"I'll win by a knockout!"

This was the confident statement made by Johnny Mooney of Newton, who clashes with Harry (Kid) Brown, brilliant Philadelphia boxer, in a twelve-round bout at the Suffolk A. A.'s opening show at Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight.

Strange to say, Mooney let the word know that he was going to win a little tapering after he watched Brown stop Charley Bergin of New Haven in four rounds at the Armory A. A.

"When I fought Brown a couple of weeks ago I entered the ring as a substitute. I had not done any training for the match. For seven rounds I thought I held my own with Brown. Then I tired, as a result of my lack of condition, and this caused my defeat.

"I have had plenty of time to train for my bouts at the Suffolk Club and I feel sure I'll score with a winning punch inside of the ten-round limit."

Mooney is one of the best of the local boxers. He is an all-round athlete and when at Newton High he starred both on the football and track teams. He has succeeded in the ring as he did in other sports. His great strength and cleverness have enabled him to dispose of most of his opponents.

Mooney's tussle with Brown at Mechanics Building, a couple of weeks ago, was a sensational affair. The boxers swapped punches for the greater part of the distance.

Phinney Boyle, Lowell lightweight, will oppose Sailor Joe Gibbs of this city in another ten-round tussle at the Suffolk Club's opening Boyle is one of the best of the local pounders when in condition. As he has trained faithfully for this evening's encounters he should carry Gibbs along at a merry clip. Gibbs has shown to advantage in his Boston starts. He is a fine clean-handed scrapper and always furnishes plenty of action.

Willie Corbett of Somerville and Eddie Ford, East Boston boxer, will meet in an eight-round match. These boys are rivals and should put up a lively battle.

Sonny Welsh of Roxbury and Kid Lavigne, who hails from Weymouth, will go over the jumps in a six-round encounter.

Larry Sweeney, a Boston newspaperman and an experienced ring official will referee.

Reservations for tonight's show may be secured at the Suffolk Club's downtown office at No. 180 Tremont street, room 20.

Brown made quick work of Charley Bergin at the Grand Opera House. He started after his opponent in the opening session After scoring with a flock of left jabs, the Philadelphian dropped his opponent with a smashing right hand punch to the jaw. Bergin went reeling through the ropes, but managed to get on to his feet at the count of four.

Brown rushed in close and dropped Bergin again with a right-hand blow to the body as though the New Haven boxer was out but he courageously stayed fighting only to be floored a third time. By keeping his left hand extended, Bergin lasted the round.

There was little action in the second frame. Brown was trying to force a knock, while Bergin refused to take any chances with his rival. In the third stanza Brown almost put Bergin to the canvas for the third time when he landed another right-hand punch to the aspirant's jaw.

The slugging in the fourth round was brisk and Bergin ducked from a series of left and right-hand salutations. Referee Larry Conley stepped between the fighters and awarded the contest to Brown.

Jack Russo of Philadelphia was awarded the decision over Tommy Lyons, Quincy, N. J., lightweight, by Maffi Flaherty, in another fast six-round contest. Elmo Olivieri of the latter town, had Russo was the aggressor in most of the rounds and landed some stiff punches. Elmo's defensive enabled him to avoid most of his opponent's rushes and cold swings. A draw would not have been a poor decision.

LONDOS SHOWED HIS CLASS IN N.Y. BOUT

Jimmy Londos, the great Greek wrestler, who makes his first appearance at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night against John McLaughlin, the Irish champion, created a tremendous impression by his decisive defeat of Alex Jarvis at New York Monday night. Londos is rated as a combination of Fred Beel and Dan McLeod, and his dazzling speed indicates that Promoter Toney's returns are due for another wrestling treat.

McLaughlin appeared here some time ago and made a fine impression. Since then he has been overseas and come back close to the 200-pound mark and with improved skill and power. He will test Londos to the fullest.

SIMON PURES TO HAVE INNINGS AT C. A. CLUB

The amateur glove wielders will have their innings at the Commonwealth Club tonight when the St. Joseph's A. A. Society conducts an open tournament. There will be bouts at 108, 115 and 125 pounds. Secretary Manning announces that a large number of entries have been received. Boxers may enter up until six o'clock this evening.

The St. Joseph's Club has always been a leader in promoting amateur shows. It has staged some bang-up tournaments. At them plenty of high class boxers entered for tonight's contests. Some spirited battling is expected. The show, as usual will last to the small hours of the morning.

$300,000 Offer for Dempsey to Box Carpentier

Kansas City, Dec. 10.—Otto Pfeiffe well-known sport writer, associated with a number of Oklahoma oil men, has made an offer of $300,000 for the Dempsey-Carpentier match it was learned today.

Pfeiffe is very close to Jack Kearns and Dempsey, and all things being even, his chances are of the best. The contest will be staged in America if Pfeiffe secures the match.

I WIN HOW

(Carpentier's Chirp via the Ouija Board Cable Company.)

I AM amaze when Beckett climb into the ring. Brown as the berry is he. Even the head like the berry looks. I am excite. I try to pick my teeth with the boxing glove on.

SACRE BLEU! He is mammoth like the catafalque the Americane build to the memory of the once powerful nickel and dime. The Woolworth Building. To myself I think, Georges, the opponent is more than the dumbbell from the gymnasium. He is many dumbbells.

MY knee, she do the shimmy with fear. Why should Georges fight with the Ally when the German is so much more easy? I am in a strange country. Suddenly, I remember I have the five little comrades in each glove. The knuckle. The morale returns and I am all esprit de corps. I am magnetic. Irresistible. I take a look. The Prince of Wales, she is there with the full dress kimono. The Prince has recovered from the visit to the dry America. I am glad. He is too young to suffer.

VOILA! The gong is played. It calls fame for me, Georges, and the ambulance for the opponent. We shake hands. Hypocrites. Me mean it not

THE fight is small on the clock. The minute hand, she takes a vacation. The second hand does all the work. Tick, tick, tick, tick, tick, tick—Monsieur Beckett, the trip takes to the Tyrolese Alps, where the tiny cuckoo is calling softly, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, cuckoo."

THE Prince cheers loudly with the voice. I take the bow. I bend low to the floor where Mona, Beckett has gone earlier in the evening. He lays there. His back is all feet. He walks on his neck. Hein! It is magnifique. Georges wins

I AM happy with the large portion of the purse. La, la. Then I become sad. Beckett lays as one who for the ashman waits. I am amaze to win so easily. I am untouched. Monsieur Beckett's ears twich. They recover quickly.

THE fight? Ca ne fait rien!" Mona. Beckett leaves the features unchangeroned.

I STRIKE him upon the nose.

UNE, deux, trois, quatre, cinq, six, sept, huit, neuf and—o la la! Le combat est fini.

AS to the future? To America I come not. Georges must the cigarette in blanc have. In America the cafe is the mausoleum. Georges is not amuse by being sad. I hear that Jacques Le Dempse like the scented perfume. The perfume is in Parse.

BOXING NEWS AND GOSSIP

Howard McRae, elever Cambridge lightweight, and Tony Viera of New Bedford will go over the jumps in a twelve round scrap at the Shoreham Club at Marlboro Friday night. These boys fought a stirring twelve-session draw at the same club on Armistice Day and both are now out to win a decision.

Chick West, Holyoke welterweight, and George Ucer of Cambridge have been signed to box Jack Cavanaugh of Milford next Monday night. Al Calzone of Milford and K. O. Joe Leonard of Roxbury will furnish the semi-final scrap at the Dreamland.

Young Michaels, Syracuse lightweight, will not lack for supporters when he meets Charley Parker of the South End in a twelve-round contest at the Commonwealth A. C.'s show at Scenic Temple tomorrow night. Any boxer who can defeat Leigh Rose, the boy which fought Mickey Walker, possess an abundance of class. Michaels is due to arrive in Boston today.

Cy Goodwin reports that Parker is fit for the contest and that he will try for a knock.

Bob McKirdy has arranged forty-two rounds of boxing for the Commercial A. C.'s show Friday night. It will be interesting to see what Johnny Downes of Cleveland does in his ten-round contest with Johnny Gray of Chelsea. Downes was a mighty classy performer as an amateur, and has naturally improved. Shaver O'Brien will battle Wesson Kid Lee in the semi-final ten-round event. Young Burgess will try to stop Johnny Morris in their eight round scrap. Johnny Hepburn will meet Jimmy Frazetti, while Harry Lyons will tear together in a general discussion.

Johnny Wilson is prepared to meet Joe Eagan, George Robinson or Pal Reid, according to Marty Killilea. The latter states that the only reason Wilson has delayed signing for a contest with his New England rivals was because up until a few days ago there was a chance of a match with Mike Gibbons, world's middleweight championship title holder will be unable to box in Boston until sometime next February. In the meanwhile Wilson plans to meet all comers.

HARVARD PLAYS 3 NEW TEAMS NEXT YEAR

HARVARD 1920 DATES.

September 25—Open.
October 2—University of Maine.
October 9—Notre Dame.
October 16—Williams.
October 23—Lafayette College.
October 30—Virginia.
November 6—Princeton.
November 13—Brown.
November 20—Yale at New Haven.

Notre Dame, Williams and Centre College have all been given a place on the temporary schedule for the Harvard eleven in 1920, as announced last night by Fred W. Moore, graduate manager of the H. A. A. Three of the strongest college elevens in the country will be met by the Crimson, which have been dropped from the program, to give way to the policy of providing Cambridge men against worthy elevens.

The first game of next season will be played on the Harvard field on Oct. 2, when Maine comes here. Then will follow Notre Dame on the 9th. After losing to the Catholics, Williams will be played on the Harvard field, and has not appeared in Cambridge since Centre College, of Danville, Ky., administered the season just past with an unexpected defeat.

VIRGINIA IMPROVED.

Lafayette will be met on Oct. 23, when Virginia comes here on the 30th. Harvard will close the season with Brown on Nov. 13, and Yale on the 20th. The Crimson will play the Elis on the latter's field, as has been the custom for the past few years.

This Day in Our History—Dec. 10, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the birth, in 1805, of William Lloyd Garrison, the famous anti-slavery leader. As editor of The Liberator, he voiced the intense feeling of the abolitionists against the holding of slaves in the Union. He did much to crystallize feeling in the North, and lived to see the slaves set free and slavery wiped out.

The Mystery of the Pleiades

THE Pleiades, or "Seven Sisters," glitter splendidly nearly overhead at about 10 o'clock these evenings. No group of stars in the sky is at once so poetic in its associations and so mysterious as the Pleiades. Among ancient peoples in both the Old World and the New, the fate of mankind was superstitiously connected with the Pleiades.

The Two Voices

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

A New Romance of American Life With Hugh Rodney, Son of a Rich Manufacturer, as Hero

CHAPTER IV.

Copyright, 1919, Star Company.

THE next few days were a period of unalloyed happiness for the betrothed pair.

Hugh ... [illegible] ... scarcely able to believe in his own good fortune. Doris grew prettier by the day gowned in the joy of life and the excitement of being loved.

Mrs. Courtney was almost as happy as her older child. It was more interesting to talk to Doris of her lover and her future than to read sentimental novels.

Mr. Rodney and Laura came to call in due form on Hugh's fiancee. Laura kissed Doris affectionately; Daniel Rodney spoke some prayerful words of welcome to the girl who was to be his daughter-in-law. It is wished that Hugh's choice had fallen upon the younger Courtney sister he did not betray this by look nor manner.

Indeed, everything transpired to make Doris content with her lot. Even her wish to have her engagement kept from the public for a while was honored.

She related this fact to her sister on the evening of the day on which the Rodneys had made their formal visit.

Hugh had, of course, called this evening, but had gone home earlier than usual. Doris' bedroom was on the second floor, adjoining her mother's. Ruth had her quarters on the third floor, an arrangement which, she declared, suited her perfectly.

"It is like Ruth to want to be away off upstairs by herself," Mrs. Courtney had told Doris when the girls were old enough to wish for separate rooms. "But I am glad you care to keep your old place next to me."

On this particular evening, she looked into her mother's room on her way upstairs. As usual, Mrs. Courtney was reading, but glanced up with a smile as her daughter entered.

Hugh Leaves Early

"Hugh gone already?" she asked.

"Yes." Doris nodded. "He was dwelling a bit under the weather, so went early. I am going up for a little chat with Ruth. I will be down a while."

"All right, darling," the mother assented, returning eagerly to her story.

Ruth welcomed her sister brightly. "Come on in, dear," as she she heard Doris' step outside the door, "I was just wishing you would happen in. I have not had a chance to tell you how glad I am that the Courtneys are to be such friends of the prospect of having you in the family. Mother told me all about their call."

"Yes, I was sorry you were out," Doris rejoined. "I am sure you would have been interested in hearing the nice things they said. Aunt [illegible] approve of my not announcing my engagement yet. I explained to Mr. Rodney that I wanted to wait [illegible] High was of where he was going [illegible] He said I was right.

"I see, Hugh confidentially, is not much fan for an engaged girl when the man she's engaged to's away. Other men don't ask her to go about with them much—for she is labeled, "Taken." So I would rather wait until Hugh comes back to New York, or until a little while before you are married."

"And what does Hugh say to [illegible]"

"He was disappointed at first—then he said that he supposed I was right and that he would do as I wished. Of course I cannot have my diamond until the engagement is announced. But see what Hugh brought me tonight."

She held her left hand out to her sister. On the third finger was a small gold band with a single pearl.

"Pretty, isn't it?" Doris commented.

"Very pretty," her sister said, leaving at it carefully. "Do you know it is very much like that little old ring that belonged to Mother's mother. You remember—I said it must be mine because I have her name. Wait—I have it right here."

An Economical Ring

Going to her jewelry case, she found the ring and brought it to her sister.

"Yes, they are alike," Doris agreed, holding the pearl in a line with—and Grandmamma's is very yellow."

"And very old," Ruth amended. "And the setting is old-fashioned, of course."

"Hugh said he could not afford a very handsome ring just yet, but later I am to have a platinum one with cluster diamonds in it. I like those best."

"That will be nice," her sister commented, turning her heirloom around on her finger. "I love this bit of jewelry," she said dreamily. "I think I shall wear it after this. I like to think of the dear, dead woman who used to wear it."

"Like? You give me the creeps!" Doris shuddered. "Well, I must be going down to bed. Good night."

In her mother's room she displayed the ring to her admiring parent.

"It's lovely—a perfect pearl—though small." Mrs. Courtney approved. "Pure and unsullied like your love and Hugh's."

"I knew you would say something nice about it," Doris smiled. "I showed it to Ruth, and she just made some commonplace remark and compared it with that old pearl ring of grandmother's—you remember?"

"That is like Ruth," Mrs Courtney observed. "The dear child means well and loves you, naturally, but she is absolutely lacking in the kind of romance that you and I have, my darling, and romance is so essential to my happiness!"

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people healthy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their scrawniness.

The cause and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our body needs more power, and an abundance in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as nitro-phosphate. What is known by this name is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying their every need with the necessary phosphoric food elements, nitro-phosphate should produce a welcome change in a few weeks' time. Physical weakness is frequently bet'er

Does All the World Love a Lover?

The Wicked Marquis

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"I AM so glad that you came," she said. "I am so glad that you have spoken to me like this. You need have no fear. Those other thing were born of just a temperamental fancy. They will pass. Be to me just what you have been. I shall be satisfied."

A cloud passed over the sun. His face was once more in the shadow, and curiously enough her fancy saw him through rather different eyes. Age seemed to pass, although something of the heedless wilfulness remained. It was the passing of a boy, the eager hope of a child, of which she suddenly seemed conscious.

"Do you think you can be happy—as I am, Mr. [illegible]" he asked. "Your friend, Mr. Borden, doesn't think so. He came down—he was just a little melodramatic, I think—hoping to incite me to a great sacrifice. I was to play the part of the self-denying hero. I was to give away the thing I loved, for its own sake. I had no fancy for the role, Marcia."

"And I should hate you in it, dear," she assured him. "Mr. James Borden will always be a dear friend, but he must learn what every one else in the world has had to learn—a lesson of self-denial. He will find some one else."

I [illegible] a man very [illegible] but I [illegible] I [illegible] to discussing [illegible] topics.

"You will be interested to hear," he told her, "that my daughter Letitia is engaged to be married to Charles Grantham. I am quite expecting that by Christmas I shall be alone. I find Letitia a charming and dutiful companion," he went on, "but I must confess that I look forward to her marriage with some satisfaction. It has occurred to me that if it suited your views a winter's travel for a time, or rather settling down, in Italy if you prefer it. There is so much there to keep one always occupied. In Florence, for instance, one commences a new education every Spring."

"I should love it," she answered.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure [illegible] and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little [illegible] coated tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to eat [illegible] bowel complaints with calomel. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They have the bold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes pays a heavy price with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c.

With an enthusiasm which still lacked something.

"A villa somewhere on the slopes of Fiesole," he continued, "with a garden, a real Italian garden, with fountains and statuary, and stra ght paths, and little strips of deep lawn, and a few cypress trees. And there must be a view of Florence. I think that you would work well there, Marcia. If things go as I expect, I thought that we might leave England about Christmas time, and loiter a little on the Riviera; the season for the cold winds has passed. Browning wrote of the delights of an English Spring, but he lived in Florence."

"But you would not care to leave Mandeleys, surely?"

"My dear Marcia," he said, "I am possessed, perhaps of a peculiar temperament, but I can assure you that Mandeleys is spoiled for me so long as that—that ridiculous old man—you will forgive me, your father, sits at the end of his garden, invoking curses upon my head. To every one except myself, the humor of the situation is obvious. To me there is something else which I cannot explain. Whether it is a presentiment, a fear, an offence to my dignity, I cannot tell. I have spent all the spare money I have in the world trying to get that Vont cottage back again into the family estate, but I have failed. Really, your father might just as well have Mandeleys itself."

"You know that I went to see him?" she asked.

"I remember your telling me that you were going," he replied.

"My mission was a dismal failure," she confessed. "I felt as though I were talking to a stranger, and he looked at me as though he were speaking to a Jezebel. We stood in different worlds and called to one another over the gulf in different languages."

"Perhaps," the Marquis sighed. "It is no well that he is your father. The other morning I passed down the fencing gallery and examined my father's collection of rides. There was one there with a range of 600 yards, which was supposed in those days to be marvelous, and some cartridges which fitted it. The window was open. You think, Marcia, that I am too placid for impulses, yet I can assure you that I slipped a cartridge into the magazine of that rifle, closed it and knelt before the open window. I had your father covered by the sight until I could have shrieked. Then I turned away and fired at a log of wood in the park. I found the bullet [illegible] a foot deep in the centre of it."

She shivered a little.

"For heaven's sake, don't go near that fencing gallery again!" she begged. "You see the time?"

He arose to his feet, and they passed down the restaurant together. Outside, the car was waiting.

"Will you think me very discourteous," he asked, "if I send you back in a taxicab? I shall be hard pushed, as it is, to reach home before my guests."

"Of course," she assented.

There was, however, general laughter when he called out, "Are you there?" and the answer came, "Yes, sir, I've been here since 1 o'clock."

THE MIRACLE OF LOVE

NEW FILM ROMANCE OF ABSORBING REALISM

Story of a Young English Duke, a Duchess and an Up-to-Date American Girl, Heiress to a Large Fortune

See It in Motion Pictures

"The Miracle of Love" in motion pictures, a Cosmopolitan production, screened under the direction of Robert Z. Leonard, is being shown at leading theatres of the country. Scenario by Adrian Johnson and Leon Trousseau. Presented by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

THE Lord Lieutenant, having [illegible] long [illegible] enough a would be [illegible] ritious speech, found himself inextricably tied up in a string of words, became panicky, left off abruptly and resumed his chair. There was a polite volley of applause from the wedding breakfast in the old dining hall. Under the tattered banners that hung from the worn beams there was the county direct relations, most of them of the men and women who had done themselves well at the wedding breakfasts of the Huberts, who looked down sympathetically upon the pleasant scene from their frames on the walls.

And then George reluctantly gathered his long body together and stood up, sheepishly, and as red as a beetroot. He didn't wait for the applause—the yeomanry officers cheered—to subside.

George's Speech

"And so on" (he was heard to say). "I'm sure that my little gel—I mean my wife—joins me warmly, and I may say gratefully, in thanking the Lord Lieutenant for his more than kind, and I may say eloquent words, and all that. It's a pretty bad thing to be married—I mean, of course, to walk the gauntlet of one's village friends and the people from the town, and then to stand on one's hind legs and make a complete ass—I mean, of course, [illegible] by that I mean one's friends and neighbors, and all that. But if I had to go through it again I'd choose the same little gel, and I don't mind [illegible] it. I'm sure that my missus—that is my wife—and I are very glad indeed to see you all today, watchin' us turned off and so on, and grateful to you for bothering.

"Yes, thanks, we stand by each other in times of trouble, don't we? I may say that I shall do my best, when I come back, to take up my job here, and I'm sure I'm in the hunt and keep the old flag flying, so to speak—and—all that, and if I can occupy the place my dear old father filled half as well I shall be thunderin' glad, by which I mean, of course, not the old knee. A little warm thing, called Emily, that'll put her chubby fingers up to my mouth to be kissed. If [illegible] George put his hand on her shoulder.

And then the mother halted for a moment at the door and George went over to her quickly.

The motor was waiting. The crowd, with rice and an old shoe, had all heard about it. The band, with an abysmal lack of tact, was playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me." The terrace was lined with the house guests. The yeomanry were drawn up, with slightly alarmed headgear, to ride with the car to the park gates. The sun had passed.

Edith, with the mother, the little [illegible] Clive and the [illegible] was at the bottom of the stairs.

George shook hands with the butler, on whose back he had ridden as a boy, with the housekeeper out of whom he had been wont to wheedle things to eat, and then strode across to Clive, whose hand he took.

By accident the two boys stood beneath the last portrait of their father.

"Well, Clive, my dear old man, it's over."

"Yes. Good luck, George."

"Don't leave England or—anything till I come back."

"I'll send you a wire if . . ."

"No. Wait. I ask it as your pal."

"Right you are, old man."

"Thanks. Well . . ."

"Well . . ."

"So long, then."

"So long, then."

When the car rolled through the park gates, George said again:

"Will you, baby?"

"No," said Edith, "not yet, darling."

"Well, if I turn off the light?"

"Er . . . yes. A quick one."

The light went out for a moment. "My little wife!" he said. "My own little, wee wife!"

That night Clive sat in his room and listened in vain for George's heavy tread on the stairs. He felt very alone and young and emotional. George was his best pal. He was a great fellow, and the way in which he had knocked down the trick Everything's gone off as smooth as velvet. You're a Briton and I'm awful grateful."

"That's all right, Georgie. Any little thing like that, y'know. Well, then, good luck and God bless you and the girl."

Both Blessed

George turned and put his great hard arm round the shoulder of the little gray woman. "I believe God is goin' to bless me and my gel," he said, with not a very steady voice. "I smiled at the whole thing at first, as you know. The idea of marryin' for cold, beastly cash was a little one, and it got on my nerves a bit, though it had to be done if this old place was to keep its end up in these tax-ridden times. But I love the kid now. She's—well, she's a good un, Aunt, and I find that I need her, so God has blessed us both, eh?"

The little gray woman stood on tiptoe and kissed him. "Ah, that's good," she said. "That's mighty good, and Georgie, if you think I really have put the show through all right, will you make me a little promise in return? Say no, if you'd rather."

"I say yes, at the top of my voice," he said. "What is it?"

She paused a moment. She found it just a little difficult to speak. "Well, y'see, my boy, I . . . I shall never be any children of my own, except my puppies and fossis, and I've got a fancy to dandle on my old knee a little warm thing, called Emily, that'll put her chubby fingers up to my mouth to be kissed. If . . ."

George put his hand on her shoulder.

And then the mother halted for a moment at the door and George went over to her quickly.

The motor was waiting. The crowd, with rice and an old shoe, had all heard about it. The band, with an abysmal lack of tact, was playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me." You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that if the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive [illegible] are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact [illegible] explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, [illegible] appetite, are nervous, lacking energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your appetite returns, how splendidly your food will digest, and how your whole system "perks" and "hums" [illegible] just try it.

NR is a no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 50c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Fine [illegible] boxes are used every year,—one million NR Tablets are sold by willing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits.

Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

PRICE CHANGES MIXED IN BOSTON

Irregularity Prevails Both on the Exchange and on the Curb

There was a little better tone to local stocks when business began on the Boston exchange, irregularity prevailing this morning after a weak closing yesterday. Mayflower-Old Colony was an early feature, advancing a fraction on the first transaction and later in the morning showing more than two points gain at 8. It was the only issue on the list to advance a point during the forenoon. Issues to sell fractionally higher included Boston & Maine, Calumet & Arizona, Old Dominion, Davis Daly, New Cornelia, Seneca, American Sugar preferred, Elder, Walworth, Gray & Davis and Edison.

Morning losses were more pronounced than morning gains, several issues declining a point or more. They included Osceola, Quincy, Swift International and Swift & Co., among fractionally lower stocks were Stewart, United Shoe, National Leather, Shawmut Steamship, Eastern Steamship and Mullin's Body. Pacific Mills "right" declined.

It was a very quiet market. Copper and auto accessory shares were given little attention by traders. Stocks to sell ex-dividend included Swift & Co., Providence & Worcester and American Agricultural Chemical preferred.

CURB PRICES IMPROVE.

Trading was active on the curb from the outset, and while irregularity featured the list at the opening prices quickly improved.

Longford was a first-hour feature, advancing 4 cents to 21 cents. Among other early gains were Simms Petroleum, one point, Homa Oil, 1 cent, and seven metals.

Among declines were Hendee, Imperial, 1 cent; Texana, 2 cents, and 3 Tuscarora Extension a point at 37.

COTTON GOODS ARE STILL ADVANCING

Cotton goods are still advancing. They have gone up again already this month and are far above the average of the middle of September last, when prices had reacted to the lowest level touched after the rise in cotton culminated in July. Many grades of goods are scarce and demand is increasing. Mills cannot work at capacity because of a shortage of labor and fuel. The appended table shows the advance of prices within about three months:

STERLING EXCHANGE AT NEW LOWEST RECORD

New York, Dec. 10.—The foreign exchange market was again demoralized today and sterling broke to a new record range of $3.91¼ for cables and below its pre-war value. Francs and lire also were weak.

Where Rail Earnings Go

In analyzing the expenditure of the freight and passenger earnings of railroads in this country, the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics finds that in 1918 $44.96 per cent was paid to labor, interest charges amounted to 8.74 per cent and the amount available for dividends or reinvestment, reserve and surplus was only 2.65 per cent. Fuel, supplies, material, loss, damage, taxes, betterments and rent of leased lines took all the rest. In 1916 labor got 43.68 per cent, interest amounted to 12.48 per cent, and 11.78 was available for dividends, reserve and surplus.

Food Near Record High

According to statistics food prices touched high records in June and July, but they are only a shade below it now. A Bradstreet index of wholesale prices of 96 articles based on thirty-one staple articles was $5.18. The week before average was $5.10 and the year ago average was $5.04. The decrease last week from the record high was but 2.2 per cent.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Dec. 10.—With the exception of December, which sold 20 points above the cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 9 to 19 points on active months. Offerings had of the entire list by Wall Street and commission houses were confined to buying in foreign exchange and unsatisfactory condition of the labor situation. After the first hour prices declined sharply, being about net unchanged at the end of the first 20 minutes. Prices were: December, 29.80; January, 30.00; March, 30.40; May, 32.55; July, 30.70; August, 29.42; September, 28.55; October, 27.55.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Corn opened 5c to 7c higher today on unfavorable weather. Cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 9 to 19 points on active months. Offerings had of the entire list by Wall Street and commission houses were confined to buying in foreign exchange and unsatisfactory condition of the labor situation. After the first hour prices declined sharply, being about net unchanged at the end of the first 20 minutes. Prices were: December, 29.80; January, 30.00; March, 30.40; May, 32.55; July, 30.70; August, 29.42; September, 28.55; October, 27.55.

When Wall St. Is Generous

The liberality of Wall street brokerage concerns to employes when business is prosperous is proverbial and according to reports they were never in a more generous mood than now. Concerning this it is said: "Christmas bonuses in Wall street will run to a figure that will likely break all previous records. Some houses will give their employes 60 per cent. of their salaries as a bonus. In many cases handsome bonuses will be granted in lieu of increases in salaries."

RALLY MARKED SECOND HOUR TRADING

Market Dull While Speculators Awaited News as to the Coal Strike

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, having rallied late in the morning. Business was of a professional character and traders waited for word from Indianapolis as to the action by miners in regard to the coal strike. Their hesitancy was reflected by a dull market. Transactions for the morning totalled but 227,300 shares.

Among the strongest stocks around 12 o'clock were Crucible, Sumatra, Retail Stores, National Enameling, Pan American and General Cigar. They were showing from one to more than two points gain.

Among weakest were American International, Kelly Springfield, Marine common, Royal Dutch, Reading,

American's Christmas Fund Double Tag Day

A double tag day in aid of the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund will be conducted in Boston, Cambridge, Malden, Quincy and Chelsea on Friday and Saturday of this week. The money collected from the sale of tags will be devoted to the purchase of wholesome food which will be distributed the day before Christmas to needy families of this section.

Last year the Boston American collected and spent a total of $8,200 in this excellent and practical charity. What could be more practical than feeding a family of hungry children on Christmas? Little children can get along without many things, but they MUST have food. The need is great this year. The high price of clothing, food, rent and fuel is responsible for much suffering. A Boston American investigator found a widow and six children in South Boston the other day whose only heat was obtained from pieces of wood the children picked up in dumps and behind stores. This was not an isolated instance. There are many similar ones.

So, dear reader, when a young woman offers you a tag on Friday or Saturday kindly buy it if you can afford to. Every dime counts. Many charming young women from the business and academic schools and colleges, trade unions, fraternal and social organizations have offered their services for the double tag day. Foremost among them are members of the Boston Telephone Operators' Union, who are always ready to aid a worthy cause.

So do not forget to help the poor kiddies by buying a tag on Friday or Saturday.

Equality in Showing Both Sides of Public Question

There is nothing particularly objectionable about the appeal which certain street railway interests are making to raise a fund for the purpose of affecting public opinion in favor of legislation in the direction of their interests as they see it, provided the method affecting public opinion is itself legitimate. This, of course, is a truism.

But the fact that there is a special interest in the street railway situation which is able and has the incentive to raise a considerable fund to influence public opinion should always be known so that we can discount any one-sided publicity on the question.

This raises a serious consideration concerning publicity. In a democracy the more democratic we are, the more the people control their government, the more necessary it is that there should be an equality in the means of presenting to the public the arguments on both sides of a public question.

When a wife, without means, sues her husband for divorce, she is allowed to call her husband into court and compel him to support her and to pay for her legal expenses during the prosecution of her suit against him.

Nobody has ever challenged the justice of this provision of law. Indeed, it is one of the most just upon our statute books. It may be that we shall have to come to such a scheme as this in the presentation of questions clothed with a public interest, where one side has all the money and the other side has little or none.

Once More American Liberty Helps Enlighten World

Some time ago a discerning British editor wrote that the refusal of the United States to swallow the peace covenants and treaty exactly as compounded in secrecy at Versailles would benefit liberalism in Europe by compelling the old-school statesmen to realize that they can't get away with things as they once could. They tried it in Paris, and they partly succeeded with the American peace delegates, but the Senate and the American people have forbidden the bans! American independence from European intrigue is to be preserved.

Apparently this sensible opinion is beginning to spread, for Edward Price Bell cables to the Chicago Daily News from London:

Enlightened men and women in England are coming to see that the movement for reservations does not owe its vitality wholly to resentment against President Wilson's manners and methods nor even mainly to these, but that it springs chiefly from the determination of the American people to keep control of their affairs.

It is quite generally felt, and I think among the working masses universally felt, that America will do more for the world by jealously guarding the forms which preserve the essence of her democracy than by taking any step in the direction of empowering envoys or officials of any sort to go off into conference chambers and commit the American people in matters touching their lives, fortunes and honor.

Though primarily our fight has been to preserve the true spirit of American institutions, the effects will not be confined within the United States, but will stimulate democracy everywhere.

The homely rhyme—

No King, no clown
Shall rule this town

embodies a judgment becoming world-wide Rulers must be agents, not masters, of the people and work for the general, not the special, good, if they would expect ratification of their acts by democracies.

DON'T GO UP IN THE AIR

Why allow little annoyances to trouble you so much?

If you stop and think of it, you know there are few things which happen in one day which should cause you to lose your temper, or fuss or fret. If you had proper control and a bigger, broader view of life.

Either you are growing narrow minded, or you are getting physically below par and need toning up in the fresh air.

Father, at the office or shop, is bound to meet conditions which are unpleasant, but why should he add to their disagreeable nature by becoming exercised over them?

Mother, in the home, is bound to have trying experiences with the children, but why should she fret over them?

If you could rise above the sordid things in life you would be able to control your little fits of temper and worry.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE RED CROSS SEAL

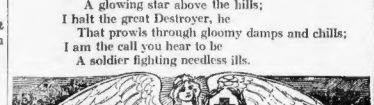
By S. E. KISER

I HELP to rid the world of dread,
To darkened places I bring light;
I leave new hopes where hope is dead,
I am a watchman in the night;
I raise the weary mother's head
And bring her visions that are bright.

A SIGNAL glows where I appear
That cannot be misunderstood;
I show the way and make it clear,
My purpose is the common good;
I lessen care and banish fear,
I preach the creed of Brotherhood.

I LIFT the fallen, aid the weak,
I watch beside the infant's cot;
I bring the color to his cheek
Who falls, though bravely he has fought;
I pierce damp silences and speak
The word of cheer where cheer is not.

I AM a song of victory,
A glowing star above the hills;
I halt the great Destroyer, he
That prowls through gloomy damps and chills;
I am the call you hear to be
A soldier fighting needless ills.



THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

Hardly any man can be happy until he has become the owner of a lot of things that he doesn't care for after he has succeeded in getting them.

WHY, CERTAINLY

"Would you be willing to give up everything in the world for me?" she asked.

"But why should you want me to do that?"

"Well, would you?"

"Do you mean my family, my clubs, my friends, my pleasures, my fortune, my"——

"No, no, not your fortune. I mean everything else."

THE USEFUL SPUR

Hardly any man is ambitious enough to do his best where there is no competition.

NOTHING TO DO BUT DOZE

If there is any such thing as an ideal job the traffic cop on Easy street must have it.

By K. C. B.

Los Angeles, Cal.

DEAR K. C. B.—Last evening, as I waited for my car on a busy square, I was reminded of you and your column. There was a little drinking fountain bubbling away merrily, while a small collie pup, that looked as though it had just completed a long and friendless journey, stood looking up to the clear water beyond its reach.

A prosperous looking business man who was passing hurriedly by stopped, pulled up his sleeves and, making a double scoop with his hands, calmly dipped them into the water and slooped with it to the pup's level, while the thirsty animal drank gratefully.

This operation was repeated, until the pup, with a last thankful look at his benefactor, trotted on about his business, while the man of affairs wiped his dripping hands and went on his way.

It seemed to me as if one of the incidents you write about so often had suddenly stepped out from your column and displayed itself, in concrete form, to the multitude. Cordially yours,

M. J. BROWN.

MY DEAR Mr. Brown.
WHEN IT'S Winter time.
BACK HERE in the East.
AND I'M wearing flannels.
AND COAL is scarce.
IT ISN'T fair.
YOU SHOULD write to me.
ABOUT DRINKING fountains.
BUBBLING MERRILY.
AND LITTLE collie pups.
RUNNING AROUND the square.
AND BUSINESS men.
WITHOUT ANY gloves.
MAKING CUPS of their hands.
AND DIPPING up water.
FOR THE collie pups.
RUNNING ON their way.
AND THE business men.
JUST WIPING their hands.
AND HURRYING on.
IT ISN'T fair.
BECAUSE, MR. Brown.
WHILE I sit here.
IN MY hotel room.
LOOKING DOWN on the street,
AND MEN come along.
WITH THEIR coat collars up.
AND I know they're cold.
AND IN a little while.
I'VE GOT to go out.
INTO HEATLESS cars.
THERE COMES a vision.
OF ANOTHER day.
WHEN THE collie pup.
HAD NOTHING on me.
AND I was there.
IN THE very same square.
JUST STANDING around.
WHILE THE drinking fountain.
BANG ITS song.
AND BUBBLED away.
AND PERFUME came.
FROM THE orange trees.
IN THE yard beyond.
AND FLOWERS bloomed.
AND THE vision goes.
AND IT'S cold again.
AND COAL is scarce.
AND MY flannels itch.
AND, OH, Mr. Brown.
IT ISN'T fair.
TO WRITE me letters.
ABOUT LUCKY little dogs.
IN CALIFORNIA,
WHILE I'M back here.

I THANK you.

The Dawn of a New Religion

By Randolph Wellford Smith, Author of "Ideals of Government," "Benighted Mexico," "The Sober World," etc.

IT cannot be gainsaid that Boston is keeping pace with the new spirit. Enter almost any church in the city of culture and the change is noteworthy. Enter any edifice on a Sunday morning and instead of the icy, reserved gentleman with silk hat and fawn colored spats we find a voice of welcome and a hand of good cheer. And once within some sweet woman may add to the welcome. But the greater spirit is to be found in the churches of the suburban places.

I was once walking up Fifth avenue with a famous lawyer of international repute not long ago. Nations sometimes hung on the decisions of his fine judicial mind.

Never in City

"Come, let us go in here," said I as we approached St. Thomas', where are held the most beautiful services in America.

"No," said he, "I never go to church in the city, but I like very much to go in the country. I do like to hear the bell across the fields and streams and I like the welcome of the people. They are closer to God, and it is away from this"—and he pointed to the passing throng of over-dressed, overfed cosmopolitanites.

It was with this thought in mind that I journeyed out to Newtonville last Sunday and happened in the Methodist Episcopal Church. There was a bell, to be sure, and vast spaces of radiantly beautiful lawns, but there the delusion began and ended. This is the church, it may be recalled, with which is identified William T. Rich, Calvert Crary, Leon C. Carter, Emery B. Fisher, Joseph C. Atkinson, Emanuel F. Pillman, James H. Rand, George W. Taylor and a host of other well-known business and professional men of Boston. The church itself is partly Gothic, partly Romanesque, with here and there a touch of the Colonial, without which no New England edifice could endure. The exterior is unostentatious, and the interior is even less pretentious. About are great trees and the whole neighborhood, even the depot, a stone's throw away, is attractive and inviting. And it is all away from the madding crowd.

Great Simplicity

Once within the edifice, the most marked characteristic of which is simplicity, it is momentarily evident that it is the temple of an earnest, devout people. There is none of the cheap artifice and gingerbread of the often too modern church. The sun falls in golden rays through windows of cathedral glass upon the greenish furnishings with quiet, refreshing artistry. And there is about the quaint and pleasant church the atmosphere religieuse which one finds rarely in any sacred place but the church of Rome. The pulpit is plain to severity; the choir place akin. And we begin to wonder about the music and that thought starts us back on a mental voyage to the wonderful choirs of the churches in London, Paris, New York, San Francisco, Richmond, Baltimore, as fine by contrast as those of Boston and Chicago are infirm. How many young people have been driven from church by the terrible hymn tunes of the ancients which some congregations still insist is worship. The impresario pays $3,000 or $4,000 for his chorus alone. The average church pays less a year for its choir and depends upon congregational singing to hold its young people. It is asking a good deal of a young man or maiden with a musical ear and only natural if they prefer to do their worshipping with the song birds along some golf link?

GREAT COMETS BRING EPIDEMICS TO EARTH

Acting on the theory of Lord Kelvin, that the original germs of life was brought to our earth on a meteor, scientists have been giving much thought and study to the idea that some of our new diseases, especially epidemics about which little or nothing is known, may have been brought to our earth from some of the other terrestrial bodies through the medium of comets. The study is an interesting one and presents some valuable food for thought. You will want to read of these latest experiments, explained in detail exclusively in the magazine section of next Sunday's

A Lesson Learned
An Age of Gold
You Do It: U. S. A.
$500,000 a Pint

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1919)

To a great nation's welfare an industry is certainly more important than an individual.

The law will not allow two individuals to settle disagreements by fighting, because it disturbs neighbors.

Why does the law allow industries to settle their disagreements sometimes by combinations between industries, producing monopoly and extortion, sometimes by rough and tumble fights between employers and workers, that upset the whole nation?

If two men say, "we insist on fighting," the general public represented by the law and the policeman on the corner, says, "we insist on locking you up."

Therefore men no longer fight in the streets unless drunk or foolish.

Why not say to other important elements in the nation: "If you insist on fighting, we shall insist on locking you up, or at least we'll lock up enough of you and your leaders until you find another way of settling your troubles."

Professor Rutherford, serious English scientist, thinks he knows how to turn base metals into gold. He may discover that a certain amount of gold is present in lead and iron, as in every cupful of sea water—it costs too much to get it out. But Rutherford will not change one metal into another. While trying to do the impossible he will doubtless make valuable discoveries. Ancient alchemists, trying to do what Rutherford thinks he can do, laid the foundations of the present exact science of chemistry. Haphazard experiments revealed truth.

Interest your little boy by telling him what would happen if suddenly some evil genius should change all metals on this earth, including iron, into gold. The gold would be worth nothing, and the change would mean an end of our civilization.

Without iron there could be no machinery, no railroad tracks, no locomotives, no automobiles. Rails of gold would not carry weight, and there would be no safety razor. You could not shave with a gold blade.

The world would go back further than the bronze age, for it is said the ancients could give a sharp edge to bronze through a hardening process now lost.

The age of gold would be an age with nothing sharp enough to cut, nothing strong enough to endure. Progress would come to an end. We need, even among the metals, "lower classes" for hard work.

Men will not change iron, which is one of the elements, into gold, which is another element. Gold, iron, oxygen, hydrogen, we have here, and those same "elements" or "substances" exist as the spectroscope tells us, on stars trillions of miles away. Man's intelligence enables him to make interesting experiments on his little grain of earth floating in a big universe. But he is not permitted to change an arrangement fixed one whole eternity before he got here, and that will endure an entire eternity after he passes.

International motto: "Let the United States do it."

A London promoter offers Jack Dempsey of the U. S. A. $175,000, if he will come over and beat Carpentier, the Frenchman, while the English look on. An Englishman who tried to do it, couldn't.

A while ago England as a whole was inviting Uncle Sam to come and beat Germany. England had tried, and couldn't. Her most distinguished soldier said: "England's back is against the wall." Uncle Sam went over, and the situation, for England, improved.

There is improvement also in the latest offer from England. An American is offered $175,000 to go over and beat a Frenchman. The United States had to lend ten billions to Europe, about half of it to England, for the pleasure of going over to help. And with touching unanimity, Europe has decided not to pay any interest on the ten billions.

Congress will be asked to pass a bill putting a tax of half a million dollars on a pint of whiskey. The idea is to prevent drunkenness, in case the Supreme Court allows whiskey to be sold for a few weeks before the constitutional amendment comes to life.

That tax ought certainly to discourage whiskey selling.

Those who suggest it, point out that "the Supreme Court has decided that a thing can be taxed to death."

That is a convenient decision for those trying to kill whiskey, but it might prove inconvenient later on for some gentlemen that think taxation all right as long as it doesn't touch them.
